Paul Smith's, N. Y. — While the outside world may credit President Coolidge with the explainable motive of asking a well-earned rest from government and politics, not so with the corps of correspondents who hold almost daily debates on the question of what the president's true purpose is in inviting callers who, upon leaving the executive offices, give out the most glowing reports on his political strength and who invariably predict that he will be a candidate a third term.

Opinion seems to be unanimous that Edsel Ford wasn't invited here simply for the mountain air and the comforts of White Pine camp. As for Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, there is divided opinion, some advancing the view that he spoke for the president when he said there was nothing to the objections raised to the third term and that the country assumed Mr. Coolidge would run again, and others venturing the suggestion that Mr.
Child was expressing his own personal views without inspiration from the president.

SNELL VISIT IMPORTANT Away not a little significance attaches to the way Representative Snell, chairman of the house rules committee, handled the question when he emerged from a brief visit with the president. And because Mr.
Snell is a practical politician and because he knew what had been said earlier in the day by Mr. Child, considerable weight can be given to his cautious observation.

Mr. Snell didn't want to be quoted at all on the subject and, grating for a reason, let it be known that he believed it was premature to be discussing 1928 politics. On the minds of the correspondents he left the impression that third term talk now was embarrassing, that people would begin to analyze everything the president did as having a political motive if 1928 were dangled too closely before their eyes, and Mr. Snell knew the president well enough to feel that things like that would never influence Mr. Coolidge's decisions.

FORD WAS INVITED
There is a certain burden of proof, however, on the presidential side, for Ford came here to White Pine camp at the invitation of the president and was brought to the executive offices for the sole purpose of permitting him to be interviewed and then photographed with the president. As for the motion pictures of Edsel Ford, this is important because not long ago
Mr. Coolidge declined to be photographed with Governor Al Smith and also declined the request of the photographers that he pose with Secretary of the Navy Wilson.

SET POVERTY REPORTS
It is argued that Mr. Ford's visit was a distinct contribution, for in a sense it offset reports of poverty in the corn belt. Mr. Ford said they were selling more Ford cars in the west than usual and mentioned only one or two states as being behind their average.
This was supposed to give the answer to the cries of woe from the western farmer. For it aches can be bought in large quantities, a generally prosperous condition is presumed.
Mr. Ford did talk of the president's political strength as did Richard Washburn Child on the succeeding day. Under the spell of presidential cigars and the relaxing influence of presidential pike caught by the presidential rod and reel, it was hardly to be expected that guests would emerge and shake their heads dubiously when the reporters asked if he was popular in the country at large.

Anyway the exuberance of the guests on the subject of Coolidge political strength has caused just a bit of concern in executive quarters and the piece of practical politics injected by Representative Snell will hereafter furnish the cue for inviting guests, though, to be sure, National Committee man Mulvaney last year at Swamp Scott predicted that Mr. Coolidge would be the Republican candidate in 1928. So there is ample precedent, both political and social, for saying also things about Mr. Coolidge when one has just been banqueted at the festive board of the president.

SENATOR CUMMINS DIES SUDDENLY

Senator Albert B. Cummins, long a national power in the Republican party, died at his home at Des Moines, Ia., Friday afternoon.

DIES

Des Moines, Ia. — (AP) — Senator Albert B. Cummins of Des Moines, a factor in Iowa politics for 39 years and a leader of the national Republican party since 1908, died here late Friday on the eve of his retirement from public life after 18 years in the United States Senate. Stricken with an attack of heart disease early Thursday morning, the veteran leader, who had reached his 76th year, failed, to rally and suffered a relapse early Friday afternoon. He remained conscious until death came at 4:30 p. m., but during his last hours refrained from speaking to conserve his strength for the unsuccessful battle for life. Senator Cummins had been in bad health intermittently for seven years but his death came unexpectedly as he was generally believed he had fully recovered from past illnesses. His first serious sickness came in the midst of his campaign for reelection in 1920. "We did everything we could to reach Mr. Cummins," Mr. Brown said, "and it was too late when we discovered the shortage in Mr. Cummins' papers."

His names were not on the ballot. Mr. Brown said their names may be written in at the polls and if they receive the most votes will be certified as the party nominee for the offices they seek.

HOPE TO END SLUSH
FUND PROBE NEXT WEEK

Chicago, Ill. — (AP) — Although a formidable array of witnesses remains in the Illinois campaign fund quiz, the senate investigating committee hopes to conclude its inquiry next week after resuming activities on Tuesday.

The committee believes that it already has uncovered the principal matters involved in the senatorial contest. Chairman Reed said he had no plans for further inquiries after the present one is closed.

While members of the committee will not discuss the evidence pending their report to the senate next December, it is known that they have been more impressed by the free contributions of public utilities officials than by the amount spent in the contest, which now totals $941,110.47 for the senatorial, Cook-co and other tickets.

As the record is now written officials of three different groups of public utilities in the state contributed a total of $170,000 to the senatorial campaign fund of Frank L. Smith, who still is chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, the authority of which over public utilities in Illinois is comparable to that of the interstate commerce commission over the railroads of the country.

C. Clements for a temporary injunction seeking to prevent Dempsey fighting any one until he has fulfilled his contract, given Fitzsimmons. The application was filed in Federal court here late Friday.

The agreement provides that the club has until Aug. 5, 1926, to pay the champion $300,000.

The agreement further stipulates that an additional $500,000 must be paid the champion ten days prior to his fight with Wills and bears the champion's signature dated March 3, 1926, at Chicago.

2 NAMES ARE OFF PRIMARY BALLOT

Candidates Fail to Comply With Nomination Requirements

Madison, Wis. — (AP) — Failure to comply with nomination requirements will prevent the names of Alvin Okanski, Kewaunee, candidate for the seat held by State Senator John Cashman, and John A. Cadigan, Superior, seeking Congressional H. H. Peavey's place, from being placed on the primary ballot, it was learned Saturday at the office of the secretary of state.

George Brown, in charge of the elections department, admitted Saturday that the names of the two men cannot be certified for a place on the ballot because they did not file sufficient nomination papers. They are the only two candidates at the fall primary in this predicament.

Okanski, youthful candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator in the first district, did not file papers from a sufficient number of precincts and four filed were defective, Mr. Brown said. Efforts to reach Okanski by telephone and telegraph Monday or Tuesday before the deadline Tuesday night were ineffectual, the official said.

Cadigan, a Democrat, was found to be one precinct short when nomination papers were checked two hours before the deadline. Mr. Brown admitted.

"We did everything we could to reach Mr. Okanski," Mr. Brown said, "and it was too late when we discovered the shortage in Mr. Cadigan's papers."

His names were not on the ballot. Mr. Brown said their names may be written in at the polls and if they receive the most votes will be certified as the party nominee for the offices they seek.

WHEAT PRICE JUMPS OVER 11 CENTS IN DAY

July Delivery Closes from 1.65 to 1.58 1/2; Month End
Shortage Is Cause

Chicago — (AP) — Sensational soaring of prices for wheat available to meet a big month end shortage here carried prices up more than 11 cents a bushel Saturday. The July delivery of wheat closed wild at the day's top figures, 1.56 to 1.58 1/2, an overnight jump of 8 1/2 to 11 1/2 a bushel.

The squeeze in regard to filling July wheat contracts came to light only in the final dealings for the month. Then it suddenly began to appear that the unsettled open contract for July delivery were of far greater volume than the trade had supposed.

First notice that fireworks were to be expected in the wheat pit developed when some of the larger commission houses began to disclaim all responsibility for the execution of orders for last minute trading.

Warnings however failed to prove of fact and the market, stampeded in earnest just at the finish.

Even the steep jump of 11 1/2 a bushel in wheat was surpassed immediately after the closing gong. In some cases as high as 1.60 a bushel was then paid to effect a settlement. This price of 1.60 represented an advance of nearly 13 cents a bushel here for wheat within 24 hours.

A new high price record for the season was established by July. During the extraordinary rapid fluctuations of the last few minutes July first ran up to 1.49 1/2; then dropped to 1.44 and then shot skyward 14 1/2 cents to 1.58 1/2 with still higher jumps after the official close.

RUBBER REPORT TO CAL.

Paul Smiths, N. Y. — (AP) — A report on rubber tree growing conditions in the far east is to be made to President Coolidge next Tuesday by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., of Akron, Ohio, son of the rubber manufacturer.

Mr. Firestone has recently made a trip of inspection in the far east.

HANDWRITING OF AIMEE'S FOUND

District Attorney Will Submit
New Evidence to Grand Jury Tuesday

Los Angeles, Calif. — (AP) — District Attorney Asa Keyes announced Saturday that handwriting found in a cottage at Carmel, rented by a man identified as Kenneth G. Ormiston by Carmel residents, was so obviously that of Aimee Semple McPherson, Evangelist, that he would submit it to the grand jury as evidence in the McPherson investigation without any reference to handwriting experts.

Keyes said: "The writing is so plain that I will simply submit it to the grand jury Tuesday. It will not be necessary for us to get an expert's opinion. Any layman can compare the writing with that of Mrs. McPherson."

Keyes announced he was in receipt of a telegram from Chicago from a man who signed himself H. F. Martin and who apparently was retained as counsel by Ormiston, former radio operator for Mrs. McPherson's broadcast station here, stating that an affidavit from Ormiston was enroute by airmail to Keyes.

A telegram was received Friday at the temple from Chicago signed "K. G. Ormiston" saying that the radio man was forwarding the "truth about the Carmel incident."

A telegram received at Angelus Temple purporting to come from a sister of the woman who stayed at the Carmel cottage, stated that the woman sought was hurrying from the east to come to Mrs. McPherson's defense. This message was sent from San Francisco and signed "Belle Owen." Inquiry failed to reveal the identity of the sender.

A letter was also received at the temple from a man signing the name of George McInyre. The letter stated he was at Carmel during the time in question and occupied a cottage similar to that described by Ryan.

Here Are Causes, Effects Of Religious Controversy

CAUSES: Laws effective Saturday enforcing the constitution of 1857, reaffirmed by the constitution of 1917. These regulations provide: No foreign clergyman may function in Mexico. Church ownership of property is forbidden and all church property reverts to the state. Religious instruction in schools, convents and monasteries is forbidden. It is illegal for clergy or religious periodicals to criticize the government.

EFFECTS: Mexican Episcopate ordered as a protest discontinuance of all services in which 25,000 priests function, beginning Saturday. Some ten million Catholics will be unable to hear mass or receive communion or other sacraments, except baptism and matrimony, which will be given by laymen.

The church planned to have lay committees conduct some 12,000 churches for worship, but the government ordered that they be taken over by committees named by the mayors. Ecclesiastical property other than churches is closed under seal.

An economic boycott has been ordered by organized Catholic laymen. Purchases will be limited to necessities.

Troops have been called out at various places to maintain order.

GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE: Church and state must be separated and the church must eschew politics.

President Calles regards it as "a final struggle" between "light and darkness."

CHURCH'S ATTITUDE: Persecution is threatening religious freedom. The church denies it has meddled in politics. Pope Pius does not desire to interdict Mexico unless absolutely necessary. He has requested the faithful throughout the world to pray Sunday for their Mexican colleagues.

The Living Church, national organ of the Episcopal church, asks all protestants in the United States to pray with Catholics for "the persecuted church in Mexico."

Bishop George Miller, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church in Mexico, says there is no religious persecution and that Mexico was forced to use drastic means because "the Roman Catholic priests in Mexico have refused to comply with the law of the land and have persistently meddled in politics."

TURK'S BOBBED HAIR BANDIT IS FINALLY CAUGHT

Constantinople — (AP) — "Fatima," Turkey's bobbed hair bandit, has been captured. Dressed as a man and armed with daggers and revolvers, Fatima had terrorized the villagers of the Taurus mountains for several months.

Fatima's undoing came when the band kidnapped several young girls to gratify her desire for female company and incidentally, train them for brigandage. State troops were put on the track, capturing the leader along with the girls in her mountain hiding place.

MILWAUKEE BUILDERS FACE INVESTIGATION

Madison — (AP) — Prosecution of seven additional Milwaukee contractors in the building cost padding investigation has been asked by the railroad commission. It was announced Saturday by Secretary William Dineen.

The cases have been turned over to the district attorney of Dane county for prosecution under the state securities act.

Mr. Dineen announced that the commission had closed its investigation into charges that Milwaukee contractors padded costs to obtain permission to sell bonds with which to finance the projects.

Five persons previously pleaded guilty and were fined a total of $11,000.

Names of the seven contractors were not divulged, pending their arrest.

LETTER LATEST CLEW TO SLAYER OF MELLETT

Cleveland, O. — (AP) — A letter found in a torn envelope of a battered suitcase in summer cottage at Brady lake, in Portage-co, may mark the end of the trail for the flight of "Red" Patrick Eugene McDermott, sought as chief of the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton newspaper editor.

The letter, uncovered in a raid early Saturday by captains of detectives Emmett Potts and Joseph Sweeney, was the first hint as to the whereabouts of any of the fugitives out of town friends and resulted in a wire to police at Perth Amboy, N. J., by Detective Inspector Cody on the theory that McDermott was likely in hiding there.

AGENTS COMB WASTE LAND FOR MOONSHINERS

Madison — (AP) — Following the discovery of a huge still Friday in the waste stretches of the Mississippi River bottoms near Prairie du Chien, state prohibition agents Saturday planned to comb the region for other illegal moonshine plants.

No arrests have been made by the officers Ben Parkinson, Madison; O. A. Stephenson, Prairie du Chien and R. M. Hillary Dodgeville.

HADFIELD NEW GOLF CHAMPION

Wins Women's State Title by Defeating Jean Cannon 4 and 2

Milwaukee — (AP) — Frances Hadfield, Blue Mound country club, became state woman champion when she defeated Jean Cannon, a clubmate, in the finals of the Wisconsin Women's Golf Association tournament at Tripoli country club, 4 and 2.

Miss Hadfield was favored to win, and her game upheld the contention of her supporters. She was 2 up at the turn and increased her lead to 4 up when the match ended. Putting and approaching tells the story of her victory. Miss Cannon outdrove her the greater part of the way but broke down and a true putter overcame her disadvantage from the tee. Miss Cannon's game was good, but she was somewhat uncertain with her irons. With one or two exceptions her putting was good.

The match ended on the sixteenth green when Miss Hadfield was down in 5, after Miss Cannon had placed her fifth shot over the green.

Miss Hadfield has held the championship on four occasions. She won in 1917, again in 1919, and also the following year.

MRS. HALL AT HOME SINCE JAIL RELEASE

New Brunswick, N. J. — (AP) — After a night of speculation as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, reporters Saturday were told she had not left her home after returning to it from Somerset-co jail from which she was released Friday night on bail.

Mrs. Hall was arrested Wednesday charged with the murder four years ago of her husband, Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, pastor of a New Brunswick church, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, a choir singer. Supreme court justice Gummere had set her bail at $15,000.

Doubt as to Mrs. Hall's whereabouts was caused by her chauffeur saying he had driven her to the railway station where she had entrained for New York. Saturday he admitted that he had been mistaken, and that the woman he had driven to the station was a friend of Mrs. Hall's.

POINCARE IS GIVEN VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Paris — (AP) — The Poincare government Saturday got its first vote of confidence on its financial measures to rehabilitate French finances. The vote was 296 to 173 in favor of the first article, raising the tax on the transportation of wine.

Another vote of confidence on the financial measures was given to the government when the article on the repatriation of inheritance taxes was voted 340 to 184.

SHOOTING AND STONING MARK OFFICIAL ACT

Ten Million or More Catholics Are Without Benefit of Clergy

10 PERSONS WOUNDED

Episcopate Orders Priests to Withdraw from Churches in Country

Mexico City — (AP) — Ten million or more Catholics throughout Mexico Saturday were without benefit of clergy.

The putting into effect of the government's new religious regulations was marked by isolated shootings, stonings, the stoning of officials and the turning of fire hose on crowds. These occurrences started Friday night when officials began to take control of churches, once regarded among the wealthiest churches of Mexico, but which has lost the bulk of its wealth.

Disturbances also occurred in several other sections of the capital. Police and firemen were called out to disperse the crowds which had clashed with the police, stoning churches.

PRIESTS MUST WITHDRAW

The priests had been ordered by the episcopate to withdraw from the churches Saturday as a protest against the regulations. Also effective Saturday was an economic boycott of the National Catholic defense of religious liberty. Catholics are requested to cease spending money on anything except absolute necessities, the object to bring about an economic crisis which will influence the government to modify its religious attitude.

Officials reiterated Saturday that it was the intention of President Calles and government officials strictly to enforce the constitutional clauses with regard to religion which have virtually been a dead letter for years.

With a view to preventing or putting down any disturbances, the government dispatched troops to strategic points.

One of the last acts of the government before the regulations went into effect was to order the expulsion of Monsignor Tito Crespi, who has been in charge of the Apostolic legation in Mexico City since the expulsion of Monsignor Caruana, the papal nuncio, who is an American citizen.

The prelate will leave Saturday night for Linden, N. J., to visit relatives prior to proceeding to Rome. The government considered his presence in Mexico "inconvenient." He insists he has been neutral in all Mexican religious affairs.

Monsignor Crespi is the fourth papal representative in the last three years to be deported.

CHURCHES ARE CROWDED

The last day of services in the churches of Mexico witnessed extraordinary scenes of religious emotion on the part of communicants. In the capital thousands of Catholics visited their churches and shrines. The case of the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe were overwhelmed with worshippers. Barefoot men, women and children trod the sun-baked road to Guadalupe, many of them with feet bleeding, to the shrine of Guadalupe. Confessions and baptisms and the marriage service were performed for thousands.

In one church a priest performed 27 marriages with one ceremony—all the couples kneeling simultaneously.

CLAIMS OWNERSHIP

Mexico City — (AP) — The Mexican government, in taking charge of the new Catholic churches, claims as it has claimed, for many years, that the jewels and treasures and all property within church buildings, as well as the real estate and the buildings themselves, are and have been the property of the federal government for more than half a century.

This claim is made by virtue of the laws and the constitution of the

EKERN CHARGES SLUSH MONEY IS ENTERING STATE

Candidate for Governor Says
Reactionaries Are Invading Wisconsin

AP—(P)—Interests which spent "millions" in Pennsylvania and Illinois are attempting to wrest control of government from the people of Wisconsin. Attorney General Herman L. Ekern, declared in a campaign address here Friday night.

Asserting that the issue is simply LaFollette Progressivism against Mellon reactionarism, the Progressive Republican candidate for governor added that "the slimy trail of Blair Coan of Washington and Montana had invaded Wisconsin."

"Only time will tell," Mr. Ekern asserted, "the enormous sums that probably will be poured into Wisconsin during the next few weeks."

"The enemies of Bob LaFollette have seized upon this time to end the progressive movement at its source," Mr. Ekern said. "They are trying to do it by dividing the progressive forces. They are busy seeking to plant the seeds of dissension. They are aided and abetted by the reactionary forces of Washington and New York and Chicago."

"The interests which have spent millions in Pennsylvania and Illinois will not hesitate to spend other millions to destroy a movement that has imposed on them inheritance taxes and income taxes, with publicity of tax returns, and that has challenged their right to monopolistic tariffs extortant railroad rates, Wall street and international control of money and credit and the domination of government itself through the corrupt convention and caucus system."

Aided and abetted by men who have deserted the progressive cause and who are working in secret alliance with them, they are attempting to take from the people of Wisconsin their control of government. "The issue is simple. It is one of LaFollette progressivism versus Mellon reactionism. The real fight is on the government and the legislature. On the one hand we have the LaFollette progressive movement, through victory and defeat, those who were true during the darkest days of the war, and on the other hand we have the old-time reactionaries who are being aided by renegade progressives, masking under the cloak of progressivism."

OBSTREPEROUS BULL HURTS FARMER'S FOOT

A badly swollen ankle was suffered Thursday by John F. Baum, route 4, town of Grand Chute, when the lower part of his leg was caught between a stake and a rope by which a bull was tethered. Mr. Baum went out to readjust the rope about the animal's head and neck, when he stepped into a coil around the pole. The bull attempted to leave, tightening the rope and drawing the coil tight about Mr. Baum's leg, just above the ankle. The latter freed himself by drawing the bull toward him, slackening the line.

NOTICE

To the Members of the Cicero Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
As there appears to be rumors afloat that the Cicero Mutual Fire Insurance Company still has a deficit and is subject to another immediate assessment, it is no doubt of interest to you to know that our company is in good financial standing; much better than it was a year ago. We are six thousand ($6000) dollars above board at present with a steady flow of premium coming in daily.

We were very fortunate in not having heavy losses for the last two months; we have not had a loss amounting to over one hundred ($100) dollars in that time.

Considering that there was a deficit of $22,315.56 on January 31st, 1925 prior to the time (Feb. 3rd, 1925) the books of the Company were submitted or turned over to the present Secretary, which was overcome through an assessment which legally should have been levied in the year 1925; new or additional members were also added increasing our premium. Several policies were cancelled, however, which were probably caused to some extent through the alarming, but unsound, rumors afloat.

This in itself proves that a large strong Company has a decided advantage over a smaller one, when it comes to cover a deficit through the channels of an assessment.

If the losses of 1925 did not exceed the losses of 1925 (which were unusually large) we will not have an assessment for some time to come. However, it is not optional with any individual as to whether or not any Mutual Ins. Company carrying a surplus, regardless whether a 25c or 50c rate for premium is charged, will have an assessment in the near future. This, as all sane men will agree, depends entirely on future losses.

This Company is not one man or family affair, but is conducted by its board of directors in compliance with Article I, Section Six of our By-laws.

URGES STATE TO PUT MORE MONEY IN CONSERVATION

Zimmerman Denies He Would Use Road Taxes for Other Purposes

Elkhorn—(P)—Continuing his gubernatorial campaign in the first congressional district, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman denied here Friday night that he favored using funds collected through the gasoline tax for any other purpose than for which it was intended. The assertion was made recently by Attorney General Herman L. Ekern, opposing Zimmerman for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

"I did urge that a portion of gasoline tax collection from tourists from other states be expended for conservation purposes," Mr. Zimmerman explained. "While people in Wisconsin and outside of Wisconsin are interested in good roads, they are equally interested, perhaps more so, in something at the end of the roads. Our good roads must not lead to Michigan and Canada. They should lead to a trout stream in Wisconsin, a lake in Wisconsin or to a virgin forest in which the tourist may rest and find his weary nerves."

"The Highway department, at a recent meeting of motorcycle officers at Sheboygan, suggested that they use about $500,000 in making a census of tourists in Wisconsin. In other words they would use a half million dollars of gasoline tax money, which is used to build good roads, to merely count the tourists who are using Wisconsin's good roads to pass on into Michigan and Canada where constructive conservation has made it possible for them to find the recreation and sport Wisconsin is rapidly falling of giving them—due to almost criminal short-sightedness on the part of the present state administration."

"I urge and I urge it strongly, that perhaps $100,000 be used in the interests of conservation which will attract tourists to Wisconsin and keep them here instead of allowing them to use our good roads merely for the purpose of getting to some other commonwealth which has recognized the importance of constructive conservation programs."

"It seems strange that a half million dollars used to count tourists is economy and a proper use of gasoline funds, while the use of $100,000 used from protection and propagation of fish and game is a misappropriation of highway funds."

CALL OFF BAND CONCERT BECAUSE OF BAD WEATHER

LOVE BIRDS ARE AMUSING PETS IN AMERICAN HOMES

Americans have a keen sense of humor—a fact which must explain the rapidly increasing popularity of that most amusing of pet birds, the shell parakeet, or love bird. Five thousand a year are now being raised in California, according to the estimate of the largest importer on the Pacific coast; and this new industry is rapidly replacing the once great Australian trade in these birds.

This gaily colored, green and brown little rascal is a marked individualist. The male, shame to say, has a permanently blue nose. Both sexes have an esthetic aversion to bathing in anything but morning dew, but it must be said for them that they keep immaculate by preening, when no dew is available.

Shell parakeets are never kept singly. A pair in a cage spends hours huddled tight against each other. Fifty pairs of them huddle even more tightly, in intervals between acrobatic and all in a solemn line on one perch, affording a sight that cheers the glummiest human. As many as 50 live happily in one moderate sized cage; but put in one additional, unmated bird, and it is miserable.

They quickly learn to eat from your hand or even your lips, and return of their own. They are never caged. Unlike canaries, they never moult, but are in full dress the year round—and a snappy gay dress it is, song, and their imitatively amusing mannerisms are the qualities that have brought them from obscurity to a position second only to the canary in popular esteem.

NORTH AMERICAN CO. OPENS BIG POWER PLANT

Cleveland—The latest of the North American Co. system's great power plants will be placed in operation at Avon, Ohio on August 4 when the first unit of the 90,000 horsepower initial capacity of the Avon station of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., a North American subsidiary, will be dedicated with Charles F. Brush, the 77 year old inventor of the electric arc lamp, opening the throttle of the generator.

The Avon plant which will eventually have a capacity of 400,000 horsepower, representing an investment of over $30,000,000, is located 23 miles west of Cleveland on Lake Erie. The addition of its initial capacity will raise that of the illuminating company to more than 500,000 horsepower, and eventually to 800,000. While high tension connections have been made to carry power to distant parts of the state, it is expected that most of the company's eventual great capacity will be taken locally through the intensive development of Cleveland's iron, steel and other industries.

Avon represents the most advanced engineering practice in the production of electricity by coal and steam. Pulverized coal will be used exclusively and it is confidently expected by the North American officials that the boiler efficiency will equal or exceed that of the Lakeland station whose pulverized fuel units for two years has maintained the highest operating efficiency of any boiler plant in the world.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits aggregating $4,000 were issued Saturday by Walter O. Zschachner, city building inspector, to the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. A permit was issued for repairing the coping on the firm's building at 112 E. College and another was issued for a gas filling and storage station at 313 S. Onondaga. This building is to be of steel and concrete and will contain two 20,000 gallon tanks and one of 15,000.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably showers; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The West Indian hurricane which has been moving across the southeastern states is now centered over the middle southern states and is receding over the northeast. Its course is expected to take it across the middle and lower lake region, which would bring it close enough to cause some rain in this section tonight and Sunday. Higher pressure over the western plain states, with generally fair weather which may spread to this section as soon as the southern "low" moves past. Another "low" with high temperatures is reported over the northwest, moving slowly eastward, which should influence conditions in this section the forepart of next week. Temperatures will continue moderate over Sunday.

SOUTH PRESENTS CHILDREN PLAYS BY CHILD ACTORS

New Orleans Theatre Guild
Places Emphasis on Audience

New Orleans—(P)—The play is the thing with regular actors, but not so with the Children's Theatre Guild of New Orleans. Here the audience is the thing.

The individuality of the children appearing in the six plays given each season is kept in the background while stress is laid on the coordination of the child players for the enjoyment of the audience of children. The guild's slogan "Children's Plays with Child Actors for Child Audiences" has struck a responsive chord in the hearts of juvenile New Orleans.

FLOWERS FOR ALL
The "all in" attitude on the stage is reflected in the rule against flowers for any one young actor or actress. The hundreds of flowers sent to the stage are for the cast.

The New Orleans guild was organized in 1924 by Miss Ruth Voss, who had spent two years in New York studying the development of the Children's theatre there. The organization was announced to wean little folk away from "grown up" entertainment that might be sensational or suggestive and substitute plays commanding at once the respect of parents and educational leaders. Fourteen is the age limit.

"ON THE AIR"
The New Orleans children showed the way in the south in giving radio plays producing three "on the air", and also staged an open air fete to aid municipal playground improvements.

The regular season this year saw productions including: "Robin Hood," "Pollyanna," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Alladin and the Wonderful Lamp," and "The Piper."

FRESHMEN WEEK IS INOVATION AT LOCAL COLLEGE

earlings Come Here Week Before College Opens to Get Acquainted

With an incoming freshman class Lawrence college which promises to be as large if not larger than last year's class, an elaborate program has been arranged for Freshman week, Sept. 15 to 21. The program has been completed Saturday by Dean R. Mullenix. All freshmen will be brought to Lawrence a week before normal registration on Sept. 21 and 22 and the beginning of classes on Sept. 23.

The purpose of the program is to get the "freshmen off on the right foot" from the start by making the transition from high school to college easier for the yearling and to make it stay at Lawrence more profitable and more pleasant from the beginning. Last year's class included 325 out the number of registrations and applications for registration at present is far in advance of the number at this time a year ago.

Faculty men and women and a selected group of student leaders from junior and senior classes including Appleton students will work with Dean Mullenix in his Freshman Week plans. Upperclass students who have been chosen to aid in the work are Helen Diederich, Harlan Hackbert, Brown Scott and Mary and Edith Goetz. Appleton: Walthea Brown, Glendive, Mont.; Helen Duncan, Keshish; Violet Christensen, Oconto; Ruth Churchill, Milwaukee; Helen Davey, Nashotah; Myrtle Elie, Oconomowoc; Mary Gregory, Park Falls; Alice Huberty, Menomonie Falls; Edith Lees, Hancock, Mich.; Mary Horton, Marinette; Agnes Norm, Appleton; Helen Norris, Manitowish; Muel Peterson, Ludington, Mich.; Dorothy Vonberg, Waupun; Winnifred Vest, Menomonie, Mich.; Anna Marie Woodward, Deperre, Vernon Grove, Menasha; Roy Sund, Neenah; Palmer McConnell, Darlington; William Verage, Sheboygan; Forrest Muck, Jefferson; Lawrence Bennett, Wisconsin Rapids; Berton Behling, Oshkosh; Gordon Bush, Augusta; Lester Eyster, Merrill; Harry Snyder, Farmington, Minn.; Gordon Clapp, Ellsworth; Wayne Parker, Marshfield; Albert Peterson, Hermannville, Mich.; George Niedert, Elgin, Ill.

The week will not be one of "loafing". Neither will it be one of tiring effort. There will be a happy mixture of serious effort with the recreation, an effort to introduce the new student to Lawrence life. Mornings and until mid-afternoon will be given over to faculty lectures and student conferences, on such subjects as college rules and regulations, choosing a vocation, honors and honor societies, keeping physically fit, college customs and traditions, budgeting one's time and the use of the library. The student conferences will concern extracurricular activities, such as debating and oratory, self-government, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. work, fraternities and sororities, dramatics and student publications.

From 3:45 each afternoon to dusk sports and athletics will make up the program. Evenings will be given over to social gatherings and entertainment. Lawrence is one of the first colleges of the middle west to try the plan on a big scale. Colleges throughout the nation will watch the experiment with interest.

FIRST CAFETERIA IN LONDON SUCCESSFUL

London.—(P)—London's first cafeteria has been a success. It has a seating capacity of 500. While Londoners at first shied at the idea, within two weeks of the opening the cafeteria had all the noon business it could handle, and most of the arm chairs also were filled at tea time.

The cafeteria is in the shopping district, and has proved exceedingly popular with women who are eager for a quick lunch.

There has been a 200 per cent increase in cigaret consumption both in this country and abroad since the world war.

Directing Women Drivers Is Cop's Toughest Job

This is the eighth of a series of nine articles on men and women as automobile drivers. Traffic police of nine cities were interviewed and their opinions favor women drivers, 5 to 4.

Kansas City.—Women are as feminine, as curious, as frivolous and as insistent on being treated as women and not as men, as tradition would have them be. Kansas City's best known traffic cop, J. H. Happy, Smith, finds.

Women drivers cause traffic police eight times more grief than men drivers do, although they make up only 20 per cent of the total number of drivers in downtown districts, Happy declares.

This grief arises first of all from women's inability to take their punishment in a sportsmanlike manner, according to the traffic policeman who has stood on the same downtown corner in Kansas City's busiest district for many years.

HARD TO ARREST 'EM
"I'd rather arrest one hundred men than one woman," "Happy" Smith said fervently. "Women still think they ought to be protected by both their husbands and the law, no matter what they say."

The biggest problem in arresting a woman, "Happy" has found, is that the traffic officer not only has to contend with the woman but with numerous chivalrous men who interfere and ask her release.

"A woman who goes over the stop line after I've blown my whistle never wants to go back when I tell her to," he said. "And, when I tell her it's either go back or go to the station, she says she'll do neither."

"Then I get on the running board of the car and take her keys, if she still won't do what I say, and she makes an awful fuss and tells me I have no right there."

"If I do take her to the station she lambasts me until she sees that won't do and then come the tears and I have to say to myself, 'Happy,' be firm."

"TREAT 'EM ROUGH"
Although "Happy" is of the theory that it pays to be courteous to men motorists, he believes you must "treat 'em rough" when it comes to women. "Otherwise," he said, "they take advantage of your courtesy. Then they just smile at you and go on making left turns."

Women are not as reckless drivers as men, but they are apt to go win dow-shopping while at a dangerous crossing, or think of the soup which may be burning at home, or enter into discussion of their next-door neighbors, just as the traffic officer blows his whistle. Then, the police man maintains, they lose their heads, quite in the traditional manner.

WANT TO DO RIGHT

"There's one thing I will say for them, and that is that they want to do right," He stopped and rubbed his chin thoughtfully. "The reason they want to do right, of course, is so that the husbands and fathers and brothers they're always driving around won't stop them from using the cars."

Young girls and women are never seen driving while they are "liquored up," in Happy's terms. They will never take the responsibility of driving when the persons in the car have been drinking, he said.

"The funny part of this question of men and women drivers," he remarked, "is that men have all the faith in the world in them. That is hard to believe, but it's true."

"The men may pretend to fuss about the women's driving, but you'd be surprised to know the number of women who drive their husbands to work and the number of girls who drive their sweethearts around—in their fathers' cars."

WRITER OF DIXIE LIKED POSSUM

Got Inspiration for Song from Hearing Negroes Sing
While Loading Cotton

Mt. Vernon, O.—(P)—There are persons here who remember the last days of Daniel Decatur Emmett, the buried in Moundview cemetery, near Mt. Vernon.

Emmett was 59 years old when he died. He was born here in 1815 and died in his cabin, not far from his birthplace.

"I spent many an hour in Emmett's cabin," said J. W. McConkie, "How he could sing, and play the violin. He would sing by the hour, in his old age if a fat, sleek possum were promised him at the end. He was passionately fond of the meat of that animal."

Emmett received inspiration for the swinging lilt of Dixie while watching a group of negroes load cotton on the wharf at Memphis, according to McConkie.

"They were humming," said McConkie, "just keeping time as they juggled the bales, and something in their attitude and song gave Emmett the inspiration for immortal tune."

Emmett always returned to Mt. Vernon, after a tour of his minstrel troupe. Once, at the height of his glory, he came back from England with $50,000, a fabulous sum in those days.

His grave is the scene of frequent pilgrimages.

THE PEOPLE WANT PEACE

Mr. Blaine would probably be shocked if he were accused of favoring another armed conflict. He says he is against all war. His personal conduct during the recent world war when, although of a fit age and apparently splendid physique for a soldier, he elected to stay within the peaceful shades of Boscobel, would also indicate that he does not think very much of war. It was so much better and so much safer on Sunday afternoons to seek cool and sequestered nooks for rest and quiet than to choke in the sweat and dust of training camps or to trudge through the muds of France.

But now in his effort to arouse some misinformed prejudice against Senator Lenroot he is opposing the constructive efforts of Mr. Lenroot to engage the civilized nations of the world in a pact of enduring peace.

History continually repeats itself. Just such politicians as Mr. Blaine were the direct cause of the four years of bloody strife in this country from 1861 to 1865. Just such sort of political agitators, bent upon their own personal advancement even at the cost of the nation, prevented the south from negotiating with President Lincoln for a peaceful settlement and adjustment of the then pending disagreements. John C. Calhoun was the South Carolina Blaine who, with specious promises and direful threats, whipped the electorate of his state into a frenzy against the nation. The south was burdened with that sort of leadership; and yet it must be said to the credit of Calhoun and his kind that they were not fearful of meeting an opponent on the public platform. They at least had some personal courage.

One of the most frightful things about war is that it is often beyond the control of the nations engaged in it. They are frequently not their own masters. Some incident occurs, as the assassination in 1914 at Sarajevo; or it may be the slapping of an American ambassador by a Roumanian army officer or the mobbing of American tourists by disgruntled Frenchmen, two incidents that occurred recently. A sensational press may pick up such incidents and at the right time excite the feelings of the people to the extent of overcoming their common sense, and, seemingly, before the consequences are realized, an army is on the march and the smoke of battle is in the sky. Such has been the condition frequently in the past. Such will always be the condition unless statesmen, realizing the dangers, take preventive measures to forestall the outbreak of a conflict.

Mr. Blaine is traveling the state denouncing Senator Lenroot because the latter favors an agreement between all nations to prevent such conflicts, or if they cannot be wholly obviated to stop them long enough until people have a chance to cool down and reason may overcome emotional passions. Senator Lenroot does not want another world war. He does not want another hundred thousand tombstones over American youths. He does not want the people of the country saddled with another twenty billions of debt. He wants peace so that men and women may live their own lives in a wholesome and somewhat kindly manner. He is statesman enough to know that nations lose their tempers as well as individuals and that in order to avoid the carnage and suffering of war, steps must be taken to prevent war.

Really the question in the primary for the people of Wisconsin is whether they want to send a senator to Washington or a justice of the peace.

WHY WORLD COURT WAS BEATEN

When Senator McKinley was defeated for renomination in Illinois and the Republicans selected Frank L. Smith as their nominee for United States senator, the primary was heralded by the anti-world court press and politicians as a great revulsion against that institution. The result was held to be a popular uprising hostile to the court. The senate investigating committee has already developed testimony to the effect that between a quarter and a half million dollars were spent to elect Smith. Of this more than half was contributed by an opponent of the world court, and the money was used for anti-court propaganda, as well as for the election of Smith.

We have had from time to time criticism of organizations formed to advance the cause of the world court. Mr. Bok was denounced because he took an active part in this work and gave prizes for the best plan for promoting world peace. All the money spent in this manner was purely educational, and everything was done in the open. The purpose was to present to the people the true facts as to world conditions, the world court and the best means for securing world peace. None of the money was used to corrupt elections or to control politics.

If it cost a half a million dollars in Illinois to swing an election that could be plausibly pictured as an anti-court verdict, it is easy enough to figure out what it would cost to buy up all of the other states. Here was an out-and-out attempt, apparently successful, to use money directly in politics to control an election for a specific purpose. Of course, the truth is the world court issue did not decide the Illinois primary. In reality, it had very little to do with it. If the people of that state were permitted to vote on American adherence to the world court, they undoubtedly would favor it by an overwhelming majority, just as they would in every other state.

Nevertheless, the Illinois primary as an exhibition of the use of money for ulterior purposes stands out so glaringly that the senate can hardly accept for membership the successful nominee even if he is elected. It also proves that the anti-world court forces are spending money in much more questionable ways than those who support the court.

EARLY MORN

When the cock starts to crow, and a healthy breeze is blowing, and the sun starts to rise, o'er the hill, then's the time—don't doubt it, 'cause I'm here, man, to shout it—that a fella oughta get his fresh air fill.

All around you can find it. Where's the person who can mind it? It's the tonic that we need to keep alert. When you breathe it, you're compelling lungs to gaily keep on swelling, and it starts your groggy system feelin' pert.

All the world seems a garden. What? Of weeds? I beg your pardon, 'cause I mean of finest blossoms that can grow. In the country, in the city, makes no difference, all is pretty, when you're standing in the early morning glow.

Air, of course, can never be lighter, and your spirit can't be brighter, than when you just say good morning to the sun. Healthy, too—and appetizing. Greet O' Sol, when he is rising, an' I know that you'll be glad that it's been done.

EXPOSURE APPROVED

One of the seventeen government bureaus which deal with public health when there's nothing important to do, has recently distributed to newspapers a series of articles telling of the benefits of exposure for babies and children. In these articles which newspapers are urged to publish, the children's bureau of the labor department assures Mr. and Mrs. Coddie, everywhere, that "bare legs and sandals should be the fashion from May to October and children should be with one another as to which one gets the best coat of tan."

This is the more startling because some of the seventeen government bureaus that deal with questions of health when not occupied with important business still encourage the Coddies to cling to the old superstition that exposure is rather dangerous.

A pair of bathing trunks—oh, kids, listen to this!—a pair of bathing trunks, or say a nifty suit of shorts, will serve as well for a sun bath in the country or in the city back yard as for a salt water bath at the sea or a fresh water bath at the lake. So says the children's bureau of the labor department, and I second the motion. Let daddies and mamas and uncles and aunts be as silly as they wish about submitting to the dictates of fashion or custom; kids should enjoy a vacation in vacation time.

Start giving the baby sunbaths in March in northern country; start as early as January down south. Put the baby outdoors in a sunny place but where he will be protected from the wind. First expose hands, face and head for from five to 15 minutes in the morning sun. By turning the baby from side to side both cheeks may be exposed without getting the direct sun in his eyes. Later in the season the baby should wear a sun bonnet to protect his eyes from the glare of the sun. Increase gradually the length of the bath and the amount of skin exposed, a little more each day as the sun gets warmer. The purpose is to bring about gradual tanning, without sunburn and without any real discomfort from the heat of the sun.

This is the greatest remedy against rickets, tetany, anemia, malnutrition and abnormal susceptibility to respiratory infection. Every well-baby should have a sun bath every day, or at least an air bath if there is no bright sunshine.

By going at the thing intelligently and without overenthusiasm—remembering that a baby's skin will burn more quickly than an older person's skin—by midsummer the baby should enjoy a complete or total exposure, that is a sun bath in his birthday costume, for several hours daily. Of course he must be tanned the color of an Indian for this.

Not only the baby, but the older children should have the benefit of ultraviolet ray treatment from the richest of all sources, the sun. In vacation time the children should vie with one another not only in getting tanned but as to which can wear the least clothing. Sandals, merely when necessary to protect the feet for rough going, and a garment patterned after the bathing suit, would be about the right sort of attire for a normal child in the summer season.

The Question Box

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The great information plant maintained by Frederic J. Haskin in Washington, D. C. has been described as an unofficial branch of the Government. It carries the results of millions of dollars' worth of Federal investigations to the people the moment they are ready, and without expense to either the people or the Government. Newspapers maintain this organization and give its services free to their readers. Only a few of the questions and answers are published. The great volume of information is sent direct to inquirers. The Bureau's research is not confined to the Federal departments. Its field is the world and its experts can answer any question of fact that you ask. You are entitled to the service. Use it. Address your inquiry to the Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How did Miller's time for crossing the continent in an automobile compare with train schedules? G. J. P.

A. The time was within six hours of the fast limited train schedules. Miller had an extra 50 gallon gasoline tank in his car which cut down the time for replenishing the gas supply. His time of 192 hours 45 minutes lowered the record by 7 hours 44 minutes.

Q. Is the Sphinx head regarded as a female one? E. B.

A. The supposition that the Sphinx head was that of a female was dispelled by the discovery of fragments of a beard. Mr. Plazzi Smyth says, "It is a man's face and had once a huge stone beard." When through Count Cavaglia and Mr. Consul Salt in 1817 the sand was cleared away in front, a part of this beard was found, between the paws of the lion figure.

DO YOU KNOW AS MUCH AS YOUR CAT?

She's a knowing cat. She asks for little—just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What is the result? Such vitality and resistance that we say, "Cats have nine lives."

What does your cat do when she is not well? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She eats grass and certain green plants to which her instinct leads her.

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic. Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to your cat's health, has also provided the herbs necessary to your own well-being?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are skillfully blended and compounded in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old-fashioned tonic that will help to restore your energy.

Feels Better Now
Mrs. Gust Green of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, writes: "I was weak and run-down but the Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

For more than fifty years this medicine has been taken by women with very satisfactory results.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in 3 tablespoons butter with tips of fingers and cut in milk to make a soft dough just stiff enough to roll on a board. Roll in a sheet about 3-8 of an inch thick. Sprinkle with berries, leaving a margin of about 1 inch of plain dough around the edge. Sprinkle with sugar, dot with bits of butter and roll up like a jelly roll. Bake on an oiled and floured baking pan for thirty minutes in a moderately hot oven. STAGE AND SCREEN

EUROPEAN FILM PROVES TO BE SENSATION OF THE YEAR

Photoplay distributors and picture fans alike, of this country, have shied away from foreign made films. This in spite of the fact that foreign directors are being imported as fast as possible to produce pictures on this continent, for the German directors impart a distinctive touch to their productions, that American directors marvel at, but seldom attain. When the photoplay "Variety" was brought to this country by Paramount, it was not welcomed with any great amount of enthusiasm, before being shown. The officials of the Paramount office were so impressed however that they started its present long run at the Rialto theatre in New York City, one of the leading Broadway Theatres. Critics came to scoff or be bored, and went out singing its praises so loudly that the readers of the respective papers, perforce went to see what the shouting was about. Now on the fifth week of its New York run, with each week bigger than the previous, it is impossible to conjecture how long it will run on Broadway. With Emil Jannings and Lya De Putti, the two greatest artists in Europe heading the cast, both of whom have since been brought to America to star in a series of American productions, the photoplay "Variety" holds up a mirror to the start of the film industry in this country, showing starting tomorrow at Fischers Appleton Theatre. Also Vincent Carr and His Gang assisted by three girls, "The Premier Trio" and usual short subjects.

ANNA Q. NILSSON IN "PONJOLA" ROLE

Reminiscent of her immensely successful role in "Ponjola," in which she takes the part of an English gentleman, is Miss Nilsson's role in "Miss Nobody," which comes next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to the Elite theatre here. In "Miss Nobody" however, the beautiful First National star is seen in the role of a hobo. Others featured in the cast are Walter Pidgeon, Mitchell Lewis, Arthur Stone and Clyde Cook. The picture is an adaptation of the celebrated novel "Shebo" by Tiffany Wells. Lambert Hillier directed. "Miss Nobody" details the astonishing exploits of an heiress and young society favorite who learns of her father's death and bankruptcy amid a revel on board an ocean liner as she returned from a gay season in Europe. She hides her sudden penury from her friends, seeks work, holding positions with poor success as her rent becomes ever more overdue, and finally, with her last presentable evening gown, attends a New Year's Eve party to which the friends she has avoided have been invited. The heroine escapes from the insults of a host who has become aware of her poverty, garbs herself in male attire in the servants' quarters and comes to join a band of rascals. All the featured male members of the cast appear as tramps. Without exception they grew beards for their roles, it being the fashion these days for green actors to raise their own beards instead of borrowing them.

UNDERWORLD MELODRAMA HERE NEXT WEEK

William T. Tilden, tennis champion, and Marjorie Daw are the leading players in "The Highbinders," the new melodrama which comes to the New Bijou Theatre as the feature attraction Monday and Tuesday. Tilden proves that to be adept at

WOULD HIRE PERSHING

Colonel Joe Miller, president of 101 Ranch, Marland, Oklahoma, and head of the 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East, the largest show of its kind ever assembled, wished to show the country General John J. Pershing surrounded by Indian chiefs against and with whom "Black Jack" used to campaign. So he ordered the General $75,000 a season. General Pershing was forced to decline, and with real regret, for he knew that 101 Ranch Wild West, as it will come to Appleton, Thursday, Aug. 5, would reproduce the romance and glory of the old west on a gigantic scale. So Colonel Miller imported the great Russian Cossack circus, to make up for the absence of the great leader of the A. E. F. Every famous Indian chief and warrior alive is with the big show, which carries 1,400 people.

one art, sport, or call it what you will, does not exclude the possibility of being equally talented at another. For besides being a whiz of a tennis player, Tilden promises to be a wizard of a film hero. In this picture, "The Highbinders" he is cast as a young novelist who goes down into the slums of the East Side to study life at close range and in time to fall in love with the beautiful niece (Marjorie Daw) of a gangster, leader of "The Highbinders." He proves himself to live in fact as well as in fiction, by turning rescuer, and saving the fair lady from a fate worse than death at the hands of one of her uncles, cronies, another, bold, bad, bandit, muscularly portrayed by no less screen heavy than Walter Long. There are some astonishing good sequences when the hero's little brother (Ben Alexander) steps in with his assistance. This child player is growing up, and is, to our mind, one of the best in boy roles now playing. George Marion, of stage fame in Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," has an important part in this production, and acquires himself memorably, as does George Hackathorne, as the hunchback paper seller.

NO SET EDUCATION FOR MOVIE ACTORS

Hollywood —(P)— What schooling best fits youth for a career on the screen? Inquiry among players at the Fox studio showed that of 31 actors and actresses, nine had university four high school training, five only elementary schooling, three private tutoring and two convent bred. Two others gave their service and travel in the army as their best education.

MEN? OH, WELL?

London—Men are of some use after all! So the National Federation of Women's Institutions has decided. At a recent meeting a resolution was adopted urging more co-operation with the men, especially with regard to choral and dramatic societies. The mere male receives few bouquets at meetings of the Federation, and even this one had a string on it. It was the only fear of Mrs. Amy Adams, who moved the resolution that the men would say that "at last the women have admitted they need men's help."

These Afghan hounds, members of the oldest distinct breed in the world, have been brought to America by Miss Jean Manson. They're direct descendants, she says, of the originals of prehistoric cave drawings—and probably of passengers on Noah's Ark.

PARTNERS. Boss and Artinelli. World's Greatest Acrobatic Duo. Partners—yet deadly enemies. For slim Artinelli has enticed away the soft, dark-eyed dancing girl with whom giant Boss is infatuated.

Boss and Artinelli. Whirling through their famous trapeze act at the mammoth Winter Garden, one hundred feet above the audience. Suddenly a hush falls upon the throngs below. The climax of the great acrobats' performance—the starting three-fold death-defying leap—has come!

Boss glances down for an instant to the far-away sea of fascinated eyes below. Through his jealously-maddened brain flashes a thought: If Artinelli should fall!—if he (Boss) should miss by a fraction of an inch his partner's wrists as they come flying toward him!—the girl!—the girl!—the girl!

APPLETON RADIO SHOP AGAIN GOES TO BIGGER STORE

Jansen to Move His Business into Irving Zuelke Store

Because of the growth of the business and the increased demand for the first class repair work, The Appleton Radio Shop is to have a new home, for the second time within a year. About a year ago the shop was moved from 207 E. College-ave to 118 S. Appleton-st to gain more floor space and window display, and now increased business makes it necessary to again move to larger quarters.

"We again find ourselves hampered by the lack of facilities to give the best service to our customers," says D. W. Jansen, manager of the shop, "and there we are arranging for new quarters where we shall have the most elaborate service department in the state north of Milwaukee." The new home of the company will be at 107 S. Oneida-st. the Irving Zuelke building, in the heart of Appleton's business district.

The Appleton Radio Shop has specialized in giving service to radio owners as well as in the selling of new sets and equipment. Dealers and radio owners from all sections of the state have come to the Appleton Radio shop for repairs because of the high quality of work done there.

Most radio dealers sell their sets with no thought to future repairs or equipment and the owners are then obliged to look for a store where service is a specialty. Realizing the need for a service department, Mr. Jansen has equipped and maintains one of the most complete repair shops in the state.

Work is now under way remodeling and arranging the new shop and salesrooms in the Irving Zuelke building. The new shop is to be furnished with every possible apparatus for testing and repairing radio machines. Sound proof rooms will be used in testing, demonstrating and comparing new and repaired machines. A new battery recharging system is to be installed that will enable the shop to give more rapid and efficient service in this department.

"House of Better Radio," is still our slogan," says Mr. Jansen. "The same policy is to be used in our new location." Saturday, July 31 is the last day at the old shop.

MILLS PREPARE FOR BIG FALL MOVEMENT

The lumber industry is giving signs of preparing for an enlarged fall movement. During the week ended July 17, both bookings and orders of the principal softwood mills of the country exceeded their production by two percent, and later reports indicate increased activity in trade. Retail distributors generally have been holding their stocks to a low point. Many city yards, however, find that they are selling more than they had expected to, and foresee an active fall in the agricultural districts of the middle West large crops are leading to expectations of much farm building, and the yards are becoming active in their stocks. Mill associations, on the other hand, are rather broken, so that shipping orders for a wide variety of items is becoming difficult, but now the tendency is to buy straight cars of a few items as hand-to-mouth buying is departed from. Additional reports are being received of difficulty in securing cars for lumber loadings, and though the situation is far from bad many buyers are taking the precaution of making early placement of their orders. According to the American Lumberman, Chicago, there are predictions of early, moderate price advances in softwoods.

Babson Finds Optimism Among Western Farmers

Babson Park, Mass. — Roger W. Babson today returned from an inspection trip. When asked as to what were the most interesting facts brought to his attention he replied as follows:

"Owing to the terrible tales which have been told in Washington relative to the conditions of the farmers, one is prepared to expect most anything when visiting the agricultural sections. Of course there are some sections which are suffering from poor agricultural conditions, but I believe the crops for 1926 will compare favorably with any year since the war. The farmer who owns his farm and who is working as hard as he can to get his crops in, and who is doing well. Tenant farmers and those who expect to hire everything done, and those who are loaded up with mortgages are, of course, in an unfortunate condition. Statistics, however, clearly indicate that considering both production and price, a vast amount of new wealth will come from the ground during 1926."

"One of the most interesting things in my travel is to note how the average business man is influenced by the New York Stock Market. Even the hopes of farmers, who are supposed to be immune from stock market influence, are very susceptible to the rise and fall of the New York market. The same men who were pessimistic three months ago when the stock market was going down, are now optimistic with the stock market going up. Personally, I feel that there is too great a tendency to depend on barometers of consumption and too little interest in barometers of production such as crop statistics. It is, however, fair to say that there is much more optimism in the agricultural communities than for many months and this is a very good sign."

MONEY RATES STILL LOW
"The money situation is paradoxical. The ultimate consumer seems to be almost void of cash. He seems to have used up all his ready money and through installment purchases has nearly used up his credit. Cash purchases seems to be becoming a lost art. Certainly the average man in the street has very little money today, notwithstanding that Savings Banks are bulging with deposits and the life insurance business is very flourishing."

"Funds for investment have not been so plentiful for many years. Last week a public utility bond was offered on a 4 1/2 per cent basis, an event which has not happened for twenty years. For the past two years now bond issues have been put out at a tremendous rate and yet constantly absorbed. With an output of new bonds averaging several million a day there is yet no sign of financial indigestion. Although the ultimate consumer seems to be hard up yet institutions, corporations, and investors seem to have more idle funds than ever. Naturally this condition is holding up the stock market and largely accounts for the cheerful spirit in business circles."

MERCHANDISING VERY COMPETITIVE
"The merchants with whom I talked report a good volume of business, but with smaller profits this year than last. Both manufacturers and merchants state that business is being done on a smaller margin of profit and complaint of the hand-to-mouth buying so prevalent at this time. Personally, I see no fundamental objection to this hand-to-mouth buying so long as accounts are being promptly paid and transportation is efficient. I believe, that the fine service which the railroads are now giving is largely responsible for the hand-to-mouth buying habits of today."

"One interesting factor of department store merchandising is the developing popularity of the 'Basement' sales. Basement sales were first started merely to take care of the tail is almost wagging the dog. Many department stores today have entirely separate organizations including separate buyers for their basements and the entire idea is taking like wildfire. The low prices together with the cash and carry system, is developing a tremendous for eleven percent more than their production during the week, though production approached the figures of the weeks preceding the July Fourth shutdown. Southern pine bookings were one percent below production, entirely because of mills finding it impossible to fill mixed-car orders. Inland Empire pine mills had bookings eleven percent above their cut. The northern pine and hemlock mills sold respectively nine and sixteen percent more than they produced. The southern pine mills are getting the bulk of their business in the South and Southwest, and the increased demand for West Coast fir comes from the Atlantic Coast and California car markets and the middle West rail territory."

Hardwood markets are also taking on a better tone. With increased sales of furniture the factories are more active, and have been buying largely in southern gum. Output of automobiles continues quite heavy, and factories are buying both northern and southern species. Northern birch and southern gum are in active demand in the millwork trade, and there is a good movement of northern maple and of southern oak through the flooring factories. Prices are now firm.

APPLETON FIRM TO OPEN BRANCH IN GREEN BAY

Build Factory to Manufacture New Type of Concrete Burial Vault

Because of increased orders for their new product, a reinforced concrete burial vault, the Vandenberg Cast Stone Building works at 813 N. Meade-st. is planning to open a shop at Green Bay which will be devoted solely to the production of the vaults. There are four companies in Wisconsin manufacturing this product but the Vandenberg shop is the only one of the four using a heavy steel wire for reinforcing the vaults. The reinforcement is the idea of Matthew Vandenberg, manager of the company.

Mr. Vandenberg has been in the cement building material construction business for 32 years. The Appleton factory of the firm was opened seven years ago when the demand for their product could not be met with the output of the plant at Kaukauna. Edward Vandenberg, son of the manager, manages the plant at Kaukauna.

The new concrete vaults are made in various sizes and retail at a reasonable price. They have the advantage of being more durable than the steel vault, which will rust through in a few years. The company is planning a large advertising campaign to put their new product on the market.

In addition to the burial vaults, the company manufactures cement blocks for building purposes. These blocks are of three types, the plain granite face, paneled finish and rock face. The blocks can be used for foundations for houses, barns, and garages and can also be used in the construction of porches. They are not as expensive and will wear as well as regular stone. The Appleton plant has a capacity of 400 to 600 blocks per day and the Kaukauna shop has an equal amount. The company delivers within 75 mile radius of Appleton.

In case a contract is taken at a greater distance than 75 miles, the company moves a machine to the location and the blocks are manufactured there. The blocks are made with the new wet process, which is an improvement over the old dry process.

The company is a growing organization and orders are received from all sections of the state because the quality of their product has become well known.

Garden vases, in all shapes and designs are manufactured by the company. These vases can be used in decorating and beautifying yards and gardens and parks.

to be received by American consumers during the last half of the year at the same rate as in the first six months, imports in 1926 will be the greatest in history. The total for the first half was 612,969 tons. June imports showed a large increase particularly in finished steel and totaled 124,215 tons. June exports were lower or 159,508 tons bringing the first half total of 1,028,588 tons.

RAIN SETTLES DUST TO MAKE DRIVING EASIER

All Roads in County, Except Highway 26, in Splendid Condition

With enough rainfall during the latter part of the week to settle the dust to some extent in the vicinity of Appleton, local motorists may start their weekend trips with pleasant anticipations—for the dust is the worst part of most state and county trunk highways in Wisconsin. It should be pointed out, however, that the few showers of the past two months have been mostly local and restricted to a comparatively small area.

In Outagamie-co all state trunk highways are in good condition, with the possible exception of highway 26 from Greenville south, which has considerable loose coarse gravel. State trunk 47 north of Balck Creek, which has hitherto seldom failed to arouse the ire of the average motorist, is now in fine condition, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner.

DETOUR ON 76
A detour will be in effect on highway 76 between Shiocton and Bear Creek, about five miles out of Shiocton, for about three weeks while a new bridge is being constructed. The detour runs over two temporary bridges adjoining the span now under construction, and offers little obstacle to travel.

Demand for concrete roads is growing in all parts of this state, and detours probably will be as numerous during the next few years as they were this year. While many drivers prefer good gravel to concrete during fair weather conditions, they cheerfully agree that concrete provides the only dependable all-weather road.

Until next spring, however, detours will be gradually eliminated in Wisconsin. Most projects are nearing completion. With exception of a short stretch, highway 78 at Sturgeon Bay is ready for travel. A report from the office of O. C. Rollman, divisional highway engineer at Green Bay, states that the detour signs will be taken down within two or three weeks.

State highway 17, south of Manitowish, is again open to traffic, after several months of construction. Better than a half mile of concrete has already been poured on highway 23 between Ripon and Green Lake. The large new concrete bridge at the junction of 23 and 49 at the Green Lake railway station is now about half finished.

The Wisconsin Highway commission may decide to relocate state route 150 when it meets at Neenah next Tuesday. At present this highway is routed from the Verbeek corner west of Neenah, over a cinder road which connects with 151 on the river road.

FEW BIG BUYERS AT MONTHLY STOCK FAIR

Several hundred Outagamie-co farmers braved the rain Saturday to bring their young porkers to the monthly stock fair at the Public Service grounds on N. Walnut-st. Only a few buyers were at the fair, however, and many farmers were unable to sell their stock.

While top notch prices were being paid for porkings last month, the market has dropped since that time and 35 to 45 pounders were only bringing from $4 to $7 each. Older pigs, weighing up to 70 pounds were selling for about $10. Last month's prices of from $7 to $16 each was caused by the demand for young pigs in western states.

One buyer explained the decreased demand by the fact that farmers in the west buy only the pigs which will be grown enough to sell again in November or December. They do not care to purchase stock which they must keep all winter.

GIVE SUMMER SCHOOL DIPLOMAS TO PREACHERS

The summer school for Methodist pastors of the West Wisconsin and Wisconsin conferences closed Friday following the three days of examinations. Seven preachers received diplomas at the close of the session.

Dr. E. C. Nixon of LaCrosse was the dean of the school and he was assisted by nine Methodist pastors who taught classes in theology, sociology and religion. Classes were held in the main hall of Lawrence college and the students and teachers were housed in Ormsby hall.

ENGAGE TWO TEACHERS FOR JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Two teachers were engaged by the Appleton school board at a special meeting Friday evening at Lincoln school. Miss Grace Witterding of Wausau was engaged to teach the sixth grade at Wilson school and Merwyn Clough of Oshkosh will teach science and mathematics at Roosevelt school.

The school board also ordered supplies for the next year and talked of buying the winter's supply of coal and of insuring the schools.

Prohibition Expensive No Matter How It Is Figured

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington—Whatever else one may think of prohibition, it's difficult to deny that dry enforcement machinery is expensive.

Representative Martin B. Madden, in putting its cost for the current fiscal year at $14,713,106, speaks with authority, as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which drafted the legislation for continued war on rum.

If anybody knows the figure, Madden does. He doesn't say "about" so much, either. He sets the sum down, to the last cent, and, if there had been any, would have included the cents.

Representative A. J. Griffin, also an Appropriations Committee member, not long ago named $23,354,459 as this year's financial allowance in the interest of Volstead law enforcement, but Madden says Griffin omitted a great many items.

The latter took into account only the maintenance of the prohibition unit and the coast guard's dry activities.

Madden includes also the Justice Department's prohibition work and court and prison expenses growing out of the federal government's effort to dry the country up.

That $14,713,106 actually will be spent on prohibition during the fiscal year 1926-27 doesn't necessarily follow.

It's been appropriated, however, and experience teaches that seldom is there much left, by the fiscal year's end, of any government money whose use Congress has authorized.

If anything, it seems likely that enforcement officials will be pinched for funds, for their expenses have been mounting uninterruptedly, year by year, since the first prohibition appropriation of $3,375,000 was made. Last year it was thought an adequate allowance really had been made. Yet, for 1925-26, it was found necessary to increase it by $13,167,406, if Madden's bookkeeping is to be accepted as correct.

Congressional wets think that what the government might be collecting, in the form of taxes of alcoholic beverages, ought to be included in prohibition's cost.

Representative Griffin puts this loss—he calls it a loss—to the internal revenue bureau at $455,465,146.10 in 1924.

Of course this figure is an estimate and not arrived at by straight addition and subtraction, like the sums Madden mentions. Griffin bases it on treasury reports for the last prohibition year.

Then Representative James M. Mead takes a hand in the discussion and Mead soars into the realms of the higher mathematics at once.

He starts with District Attorney Buckner's assertion that $15,000,000 is needed to enforce prohibition in New York, remarks that New York has one-third of the nation's population, multiplies $15,000,000 by 10 and gets $150,000,000.

But on an era basis—which Mead prefers—the multiple is 75, which gives $1,125,000,000 as a result.

Now, says Mead, include lost revenue and you have $1,580,465,146.10.

No, he refuses, so throw off that last ten cents.

Mead is perhaps a trifle fanciful, but Madden sticks to plain arithmetic.

Saving by spending

It was a favorite expression of Theophrastus that time was the most valuable thing that a person could spend. One can easily prove the soundness of this logic. Every minute spent in reading the advertisements in this paper multiplies itself manifold in the time saved in shopping.

Advertisements eliminate lost motion. They save "running your legs off" trying to find some particular article at the price you want to pay. They bring the shops to your breakfast table, where you may review and select before starting out.

Advertisements are a straight line between demand and supply, between spending and saving, between purse and purchase. They save your shopping time and conserve your household money. They enable you to get one hundred cents out of every dollar.

So read the advertisements. Read them every day. Far from being a task, you will find it an interesting pastime. It will bring you up to the minute on what's what in everything that concerns you and your home and family. No one can spring anything new on the regular reader of advertisements!

The advertising columns are marching columns of progress. Don't miss the parade!

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

NELL and HOWARD ORME, who seem to be unhappy together.

DR. DICK MENEFEE, John's best friend, and MARGARET, his wife.

Previous chapters told how: Fay took JUDITH, the baby, to visit her parents in Chicago, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When Fay returned, gossip had retailed and exaggerated some of his activities, and sharp quarrels followed. One of them drove him "out on a tear," and caused Fay to threaten to leave him if it was repeated.

A growing interest in Nell Orme is brought to a head by Mrs. Boyd, who takes delight in promoting "affairs." The day comes when he takes Nell madly in his arms.

Fay finds it out and leaves John. He closes the house and takes an apartment, where Nell comes to see his one night after a violent quarrel with her husband. Howard comes in on them, threatens divorce and that night commits suicide.

Then NATHANIEL GRAHAM offers to buy him out for $13,000, or let John buy, believing he cannot raise the money. And John, realizing the business is all he has left now that Fay and Judith are gone, tries desperately to raise the money. Menefee lends him several thousand dollars, and when John has been discouraged, Menefee and his wife write to Fay, explaining the situation to her.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER LIX

Had John known that Dick and Margaret had written to Fay, he would have quit then and there. Dick realized this and for that reason was careful to keep even the slightest hint of it away from him.

Nevertheless, Menefee told himself and Margaret, it was time something was done. He had written Fay before, and something in the letter she had written in reply told him that she had not ceased caring for John.

"A pity," he kept telling Margaret, "a terrible pity that those two should be so stubborn when they both need each other so."

"Of course," Margaret suggested gently, "Fay had to do something. She couldn't let John go on—"

"Now Margaret, there you go. John didn't do half the things he was reported to have done. The 'wh' was slandered—it was positively chaste."

"Slandered, yes—but not entirely innocent—my dear."

"Well," grudgingly, "he's learned his lesson."

At the end of that week John was mighty close to despair. Four days ago—and still six thousand dollars away from his goal. No one knew the sting of the feeling of defeat that sat upon him—the sense of futility—the bafflement.

And then, just when things looked blackest and he was on the verge of going to Nat Graham and saying the hell with the whole thing, Dick Menefee called him up, and exuberant joy was in his voice as he announced his news.

"It's been done, John—I've raised it."

It was unbelievable. "Where? Where?"

But Dick refused to tell him. "I've promised not to reveal my source of supplies. Promised on my word of honor as a gentleman and physician. But it's done—no need to worry."

"But Dick—it's like a fairy tale. You've got to tell me or I won't believe you. I've got to pay it back. Where did you get it?"

"Don't worry about that. You pay me back. Consider yourself indebted to me to the extent of twelve thousand dollars. Now then, old man, go ahead and lick 'em all."

He would lick them all, John told himself grimly as he turned away from the phone. Across the room sat Nat Graham, and John smothered an impulse to run over and say it had been done. Instead, he fished from his pocket the paper on which Nat had written down the terms of the agreement. He'd wait, he told himself. He'd wait, and meanwhile he'd be swinging into action.

"Briggs," he called, "and the little fellow came trotting in, ink smeared on his arm, a brush stuck back of his ear. Briggs, you're going out to lunch with me. I've news—real news."

And Briggs smiled knowingly. Milburn had put it over!

Four days later, in the little conference room. And Graham leisurely drawing up a chair, a half-smile playing on his face, while John, masking his feelings with a worried expression, seemed reluctant to get down to business.

"Well, John, how about it? Ready to buy me out?" The condescension of his manner told John that he was far from believing that he was ready. But John stalled. "I still think Nat, that you're offering me too little for my share. Will you make it twenty thousand?"

"Lord no! Now," irritably, "we've gone into all of that before. You agreed. You gave me your word. I've got it here in writing."

"But don't you think you're getting it mighty cheap? I hate to let go, Nat. Do you think fifteen thousand is fair?"

"Why of course it's fair. It's not worth that. It's not worth more than twelve."

"Very well, Nat. I just wanted to make sure," he said casually.

"There's the fifteen thousand, Nat," and John laid the certified check on the table in front of Graham, who stared as if he had seen an apparition.

"But—" Graham sputtered. "Look here, what are you doing, tricking me?"

"Not at all. That check's O. K. You just said fifteen thousand was more than what half interest was worth. You said it wasn't worth more than twelve. All right, I'm overpaying you three thousand."

"Damn you, Milburn. You double-crossed me," Graham was furious.

"Strong language, Nat, strong language."

"I won't sell. I'll be damned if I do."

"I've got it in writing, Nat. Right here in my pocket." He started out of the room.

"Hold on," Nat called; "where are you going?"

"I'm going to get a witness." He raised his voice. "Briggs!" he called.

WILLIAM TILDEN AND MARJORIE DAW IN "THE HIGH BINDERS" AT THE NEW BIJOU MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

"Briggs," he said when the artist arrived, "what time is it?"

The artist glanced at his watch. "Quarter to twelve."

"Right. Now, do you see this check?" and he picked it up from the table.

"Yes," Briggs was grinning broadly.

"Now will you read this agreement?" Briggs read it.

"All right. Sure. What about it?"

"Well, what do you gather has happened?"

"Why, I gather that you've bought Mr. Graham out."

"Exactly, Briggs, exactly." He turned to Graham. "Now, Nat—"

But it wasn't going to be easy, John saw. Now that the business was his, his troubles were just beginning. Graham immediately went over with Kelly and Jones, though John surmised that his plans and Kelly's, too, had received a severe jolt. Two days later, Briggs' assistant left, and he, too, John learned, had gone with Kelly and Jones.

"Rats deserting a sinking ship," John said to Briggs.

"Sinking nothing! This ship is going to sail!"

And so the fight began in earnest. There were just three of them now—himself, Briggs and Miss White, the inexperienced stenographer Graham had hired to replace Miss Knisely and who seemed to be over her depth, but whom John hadn't the heart to fire.

He realized Nat would be making an effort to land all of the old Graham and Milburn accounts—especially Milltown Tools and Barker and Williams Toys. And Nat, most likely, would be knifing him pretty severely—telling all he knew of John's troubles.

He had proof of that in the letter that came from the Milltown Tool advertising manager:

"Graham tells me he has gone over with Kelly and Jones and that they've got a real agency. He also says some pretty mean things about your personal habits—that you've been messing around and getting your fingers burned. Of course, we don't like to hear about that, but we like the people who spread such news a great deal less. As long as your copy gets the results it has been getting, we're pretty well satisfied to string along with you."

And John replied with a wire:

"My heartfelt appreciation of your downright decent letter. As for my copy, you haven't begun to see real copy yet. Wait a week and I'll show you something new."

That was the way, he told himself. Make the world believe he was going to do something big. And at the same time, he was tremendously heartened by the friendliness of the Milltown letter.

"Nat won't get anywhere there," he said with satisfaction.

"Briggs," he said later that day "we need a real executive around here—follow with sales ability. But I can't afford one just yet, so I'm going ahead and be my own sales manager. I'm going to proceed on the theory that good art and good copy—the best we know how to turn out—will be the best sales talks we can deliver for a while."

"Well," and Briggs grinned, "I'll show you a few things about drawing that'll surprise you. You've got me pepped up now, and I'll work my head off."

"It means," said John, "that you're going to be given an interest in this business."

Briggs stuck out his hand. "I knew I wasn't making a mistake, sticking with you, John."

Two weeks passed, and it was almost Christmas time. Toys were making their appearance in the shop windows and downtown throngs wore a holiday air about them. It was a time of homesickness for John. The toys—and Judith.

But with grim resolve not to cry over spilt milk, he flung everything he had into the work ahead of him. And though he worked from early morning till all hours of the night, and Dick Menefee warned him and urged him against "overdoing," he was enjoying it tremendously.

The knowledge that this business was all his, to stand or fall on the result of his labors, was sufficient compensation. And there was a fierce joy in matching his wife against those of Kelly and Jones—new Kelly, Jones and Graham.

And Briggs, too, worked like a Trojan. The little fellow was bubbling over with enthusiasm these days and really turning out work that surpassed anything John had ever seen him do. Even Miss White, clumsy and bungling as she was, tried hard and John felt very grateful, though privately he had decided that he must hire a really efficient secretary some time—and keep Miss White for purely routine work.

He would advertise next week, he told himself.

The Barker and William proposition was proving a tough nut to crack. Graham was going after that hammer and tongs, and evidently had a friend in their advertising manager. Despite all John and Briggs could do, the account was lost. A letter one morning announced they had decided to "try someone else" as soon as their contract expired.

That was a blow that hurt John pretty keenly. But Briggs, sticking out his jaw, said tersely, "All right, we'll go after some of Kelly's accounts."

John was not so buoyant, but he realized that even without the toy account he was going to make more money than he had when he and Graham were dividing the profits, unless they lost more ground. He agreed with Briggs; going into the enemy's camp was the thing to do, but he'd have to have an office manager, someone to take charge and let him get outside for a while. So he advertised for an experienced secretary.

And that night Dick Menefee telephoned him. "See you need a secretary, John. I've got the very girl for you. A peach. A wonder."

"I'm not looking for peaches," John laughed. "I'm looking for a secretary."

"But this one, John—I'm sending her over in the morning."

And Dick sounded so pleased with himself that John was puzzled. What was Dick up to now?

NEW VICTOR RECORDS JUST OUT

20028—1 Found a Round-about Way to Heaven
That's Why I Love You
Correll and Gooden—75c

Sam 'n' Henry have cut the talking stuff this time, and are coming through with two songs—two of the most melodious of their kind they yet have sung us, or that we have heard of recent weeks. "Round-about Way to Heaven" has a sly but irresistible swing in it; the artists sing it in soft tones, the piano tinkling merrily beside them. It begins with some very blue harmonies, but leaps at once into melody. The companion number is similar, and at times the two singers fall into the "whispering style." Sam's tenor and Henry's bass blend well, and both men have natural gifts as black-face singers.

20081—Deep Henderson—Fox Trot
Coon-Sanders Original Night-hawk Orchestra
Ace in the Hole—Fox Trot
Katz and His Kittens—75c

There are some fine bits of sax harmony. Both of these numbers dance well, if they conduce to different styles of dancing.

20091—Lonesome and Sorry
At Peace With the World
Victor Salon Orchestra—75c

Recent song and dance successes scored for the small ensemble orchestra which has become so famous in interpreting popular sentiment in the terms of finished art. "Lonesome and Sorry" already is known as a fox trot, while the companion number, an emphatic "big hit," is best known in waltz form. Strings, celesta and vibraphone figure in the first, which is notable, here and there, for the beauty of its violoncello tone. The second keeps a flute conspicuous, in cadenzas and rooco embellishments, sometimes as solo passages, and again as counter-melody of florid type. It has a long display passage near the close of the record.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

KEAN AND RILEY, INC.

"Now, Mother," answered Mamie wearily, "you must let me do this one thing as I want to. I like Julie Kean and can't you see that what she pays for her room will help to pay some of the bills to keep Rosie at the school?"

I was glad I overheard this, for if I knew I was helping Mamie, I would have slept on a shelf instead of a new bed, and listened to the perpetual growling of a tiger instead of Mrs. Riley's complaints.

When I went to the restaurant the next morning, I found that the "man-agement," which meant Stearns, was trying to change my shift so I would not work at the same time Mamie did.

We'd just put on our aprons and gotten ready for the lunch hour when a typewritten notice was handed to me, which said, "Miss Kean will alternate her shifts with Miss Riley after today. Signed, The Management."

I meekly showed the note to Mamie. She turned pale and then her face was suffused with red.

"Do you think you can take care of things for about ten minutes, Julie?" she demanded.

"I'm sure I can," I answered.

Mamie said nothing more and made for the manager's office.

In a few minutes she came back triumphant.

"Well, that's once Mr. Stearns had to come down a little," was her remark as she put on her apron.

Neither of us said any more about it until we both got home that night and I asked:

"What happened?"

"Plenty, my dear Julie, plenty. Stearns looked at me as I entered his office with a smile that ought to have frozen me stiff. He asked:

"Why have you left your station?"

"I have just come to tell you, Mr. Stearns, that Julie Kean and Mamie Riley work together or not at all."

"Pardon me, Miss Riley. Are you managing the affairs of this restaurant?"

"No sir, I'm not. But, I am running the affairs of Kean and Riley."

"Well, that being the case I'm afraid we'll have to disengage with Kean and Riley. We did not hire them as a firm, you know."

"We're a firm now, Mr. Stearns, and you'd better get substitutes for the hat-checking station where we are. We're leaving as soon as we can get back to Julie and tell her we're being fired."

Kimberly—All indications are that the record crowd of the season will be on hand, weather permitting, for the big fray with the Appleton ball club here on Sunday. The local team has been practicing regularly and will attempt to show the Appleton team a little more baseball than was displayed when Appleton gave Kimberly the worst trimming of the year, running up a 9 to 1 advantage. The offerings of Len Smith should prove just as bewildering to the Appleton squad as they have proven to be to the other teams of the league. Len still has his first game of the year to lose as a pitcher. He has done considerably better pitching but has come through with every game that he has started in great style. According to indications from Appleton either Reffke or Sternagle will be Baetz' choice for Appleton. Both of these twirlers have been turning in good games in recent encounters. Reffke passed out a four hit game in the last battle with Kimberly, which he got for winning, while Sternagle's latest conquest was the league leading Oshkosh crew, which he let down with a total of five hits. The Appleton lineup will include Ashman, Radtke, Gosha, Schultz, Towner, Priebe, Baetz and Bent. The Kimberly squad will include Smith, Hartjes, Schell, Courtney, Bent, Thein, Vanderloop, Koll, H. Thein, and Nig Verbaten.

Young Orville Reffke, the youngest hurler in valley loop circles, will oppose Kimberly Sunday when the "game and two innings" are played at the downriver village. Reffke tamed Kimberly with four hits to beat the Cookmen in their last appearance against Appleton and he was Manager Baetz's first choice. Sternagle, who has won his last two games, one against Oshkosh, by letting the foes down with two and five hits, will be reserve ready to top the hill the instant the youngster falters. In Reffke's only other start of the year for Appleton, he held Oshkosh to four hits in four frames here, but retired from the mound when his mates handed the Noelmen the tilt by throwing the ball all over the place and musing up easy catches and hits. When he left the scene, the Sawdusters had garnered about eight runs on four scattered blows plus the play of his mates.

TWO MEN RELEASED
On Memorial day after the two teams had clashed in the rivalry frames the tilt was called a draw in the seventh with the scored tied. The final two innings of this game have been added attraction Sunday. Appleton will be without the service of two players Sunday as the result of releases issued this week to Clarence "Dats" Crowe, one of the best hurlers in the loop and Ted Van Wyck, outfielder. On the mound when the only once since early season, while Crowe drew his papers for "indifferent playing," according to Manager Baetz. His work has been only fair the last few games and his former stomach ailment seems to be returning to destroy his effectiveness and hurt his work. Manager Baetz believes that he now has a dependable staff of two good

KERNELS SQUEEZE OUT 3-2 WIN FROM BREWS

Louisville, Ky., (AP)—After being nosed out again Friday in the ninth inning, this time by 3 to 2 the Brewers, are just about ready to admit that the champion Colonels have something on them. It took two hours and thirty minutes to decide the fray, the bitterest and most scorching ball game we have ever seen and which left an overflow crowd, players and scribes, alike, limp as a dish rag at the end.

OSHKOSH SQUAD HAS HARD PATH TO COP PENNANT

Leaders Play 4 Straight Away from Home After Sunday; Bays, Fondy Have Chance

Fond du Lac—With seven sets of games yet to play, the Valley loop baseball race is starting on its final lap. There are five Sundays in August and the curtain is pulled down with games on first Sunday and Monday in September. To date there has been thirteen playing dates but the Green Bay club is the only team "caught up" on its schedule. Fondy has one postponed game while the other nine each have two play offs. Oshkosh is still pretty well out in front but Fond du Lac closed the gap somewhat by beating Green Bay while Noel's crew took a bumping from Oshkosh. The Sawdust City outfit isn't going to have the best of the schedule for the remainder of the season because of Sunday's tilt with the Cardinals they play away from home in every game except Sept. 6 when they wind up the season with Neenah at the Fair grounds. This "break" in the schedule may result in a blanket finish because no club does its stuff as well abroad as when performing in its own back lot. Green Bay plays four of its remaining seven contests at home and this may bring Clusman's youngsters well up in the race. The Bays tilt outside are with Appleton, Neenah, and Kimberly. If the Green Sox get going again as they were at the start of the season they will loom as a "long shot" pennant contender. If Fond du Lac comes across with a victory over Oshkosh on Sunday, Farris & Co. will have a splendid chance for the buntings. The Cardinals are handicapped in the box as Eps Lee has been the only Fondy slabster to hurt winning ball. However, Manager Farris thinks that Vorhees will come through in a pinch if necessary.

APPLETON GOING GOOD
Appleton is going good again. The Baetzman gave a great exhibition against Oshkosh. As a matter of fact, the College City crew has been playing bang up ball ever since Green Bay thrashed them for a double loss. Appleton and Kimberly, Sunday, and it will be a battle for fourth position as the two teams are knotted in the percentage table. Although hopelessly in the cellar, Neenah is carrying on gamely and Manager Larsen has added some Menasha players to his team. Dame Fortune hasn't smiled on the Twin City crew this year but a good foundation is being laid for a winner in 1927.

hurlers and possibly three and that he can let Crowe go. Reffke has improved much and is ready for valley loop competition. Sternagle has shown enough in his last two starts to be dependable and a star of the loop. Another hurler named Evans will be ready for the local lineup in a few days after the matter of his records are cleared, Manager Baetz believes. He was to start against Oshkosh last week, but his papers were not ready and Manager Noel precluded his playing. He has been working on a farm near Appleton and, according to local players, he shows plenty of speed and a good curve. The remainder of the Appleton lineup will be the crew which beat Neenah and Oshkosh with its fine fielding since the infield was reorganized. Radtke, C. Towner, Schultz and Gosha will be infielders with Baetz, Priebe and Bentz in the gardens.

HAL CHASE AND "CHIP OFF OLD BLOCK"

Hal Chase is back. But—wait a minute—we don't mean the peerless Hal of years ago, the fellow with the nifty footwork and lengthy reach that used to have major league fans sitting pop-eyed with his sensational antics around first base. Ah, no, it's another Hal Chase this time—a son of the famous star of other days—Hal Chase, Jr., signed with the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League a few days ago. He's only 16 and still has two more years in school, but critics that have seen the youngster in action state he's a "chip off the old block." Some even go so far as to say he'll outdo his illustrious dad. Young Chase will practice with the Missions on Saturday and Sunday and during vacation periods.

Ace Hudkins 20 Years Too Late To Win Lightie Title

BY JOE WILLIAMS
New York—This burg likes color and for that reason it likes "Ace" Hudkins, the cave man fighter from Omaha who is now in the important money hereabouts as the result of knocking out Ruby Goldstein, a young phenom that everybody was calling a "second Benny Leonard." Hudkins is a lightweight. He's been fighting out in the middle west and on the Pacific coast for two or three years. He's an Irishman with red hair and two gold teeth that look like twin pillars of fire. He's managed by his brother, Clyde, who always calls him "Cat" because of his nickname "Wildcat." The ring critics here have a habit of becoming hysterical over a new comer who makes the grade unexpectedly. It really wasn't much of a trick to knock out Goldstein, who is only a kid with plenty to learn, but Hudkins did it in a way that fed New York's passion for the spectacular and that's what put him over.

The next day the boys who write for the papers vied with one another trying to see who could lift Hudkins to the highest seat on Mt. Olympus, where only the gods dwell. They called him everything from a cross between Bat Nelson and Ad Wolgast to a 135-pound Stanley Ketchel and a vest-pocket Dempsey. Well, it may be that he is all of that, or some of it, at least. What I like about him most is his native enthusiasm for the ring. He actually seems to LOVE to fight. A lot of battlers have claimed this extraordinary quality but few have really had it.

Hudkins will take a pasting and then come on to win. In this respect he is like Nelson of old, who was durable enough to win a world championship in the days of long fights but who would probably be a sucker for some of the second-rate speedsters in the prints which make up fighting for the most part today. It may be that Hudkins came to the game 20 years too late to win a championship. There is no doubt that he would have been up among the leaders in Nelson's time. His ruggedness, his stamina and his fighting heart would have put him there. Today when light-tapping and flashy footwork are more or less of a vogue in the ring the qualities which are dominant in Hudkins are not so important, and the probability of his cashing in on them to the extent of a crown is not encouraging. Hudkins was on the floor in the first round of his fight with Gold-

STATE CHAMP LEADS LOCAL LINKS HOPES

Pelkey, O'Keefe, Flight B, C Titlists of Section in; 3 Juniors Compete

Eleven Appleton golfers, including three juniors, lead by Ken Dickinson of Riverview and Butte des Morts, state amateur and northwestern Wisconsin champion, will represent the two local clubs in the twenty-sixth annual state amateur championships and handicaps, which open at Milwaukee Monday. The meet is held on the Ozaukee Country club course and runs until Saturday. Local golfers will make an effort to bring the 1927 meet as well as a few prizes.

BOOK, KERWIN IN
Beside the local men, at least a dozen stars of this part of the state will take part in the meet. These will include Adolph "Buster" Book, Sheboygan, 1925 N. E. W. G. A. titlist, who carried Dickinson to the 19th hole in the title match this year; Frank Kerwin, Green Bay star, who lost to Book in the semi-finals; Bobby "Testudo" Sheboygan, N. E. W. G. A. junior champ, Bobby is a favorite in the junior event, while Kerwin and Book with Billy Sixty of Milwaukee, Morgan Manchester of Madison, and several others are favored to give Dickinson the battle of his career in defense of his title. Book is picked by Milwaukee scribes to beat Ken in spite of the result of the meet here last week and Manchester was his runner-up last year. Sixty is an experienced star as is Ned Allis another crack Milwaukeean and former champion.

All of the Appleton men are expected to make good showings and possibly win flight titles. Three are flight champs of northeastern Wisconsin and two are runner-ups. The others beside Dickinson are Dr. W. E. O'Keefe, P. C. Wesso, D. P. Steinberg, D. P. Steinberg, Jr., John Neller, J. T. Quinn, Herbert Pelkey and Dr. G. N. Pratt. Butte des Morts; Jack Powell and Fred Recto, Riverview.

Rector, winner of the Post Crescent handicap prize for June, Powell and young Steinberg will enter the junior event which opens at 9:30 Thursday morning and closes Friday noon. As mentioned above, Testudo is a favorite. Steinberg with his father also will compete for the Pater-Philus trophy on Monday and Tuesday. Dickinson will defend his state title. Of the other local golfers, Pelkey is flight B champ of northeastern Wisconsin, O'Keefe is flight C champion, Wesso is flight B runner-up, Quinn is flight D runner-up and Steinberg, Sr., is flight A-B consolation titlist.

The program opens with a qualifying round of 18 holes medal play, half played at 8 o'clock Monday morning and half at 3 on Tuesday. The low 32 in both rounds make the title flight, the next 16 the President trophy flight or flight B, the next 16, Vice President or flight C, the next Secretary or flight D and the next 16 the Directors or flight E. Included in the qualifying round is the Yule cup competition in which gross medal score of a designated five men from each club counts for bonus points. Flights will continue until Thursday afternoon when finals will be held in all flights but the title affair, and a special handicap event will be held for all others not in other tourneys of the afternoon.

At 10 Friday morning the first half of the title finals will be played as well as the junior finals. At 2, the second half of the title finals will be played and at 5 o'clock the "many beautiful trophies" will be presented to all winners. Members of affiliated clubs are eligible for the competitions. The Pater-Philus event is 18 holes with handicaps applying, the winner being the team with low net score. The Pater-Philus cup goes into the custody of the club represented by the father until the next competition. The winners get medals also from the members of the team with the best gross score.

Cleveland—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight champion, won from Midget Smith, Chicago, on a foul (3). Phil Kaplan, New York, won a technical knockout over Larry Estridge (3). and Paschal of the Yanks and Williams of the Browns hit home runs. Cleveland, seemingly fighting in a lost cause, kept pare, but remains nine games behind the Yanks in the race for the American League leadership. The Indians made it four straight over Philadelphia 4 to 1. Chicago defeated Washington, 5 to 4, in a final game of the series, Catcher Grabowski starting a rally in the ninth with a double. Boston's Red Sox made it three games out of four from Detroit by timely hitting, 4 to 3, the first series they had won from the Tigers this season. Ballou of the Browns was the victim of Babe Ruth's thirty-second homer of the season. It was the 341st home run of the Bambino's major league career. When Babe made his record of 50 homers in 1921 he had total of 37 to his credit on July the final inning lost the game, Ruth

Leading Teams In Majors Pound Pellet Hard While Near Rivals Are In Slump

Traynor Goes from 7th to 5th to Aid Pirates in Dash for N. L. Leadership

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—The leading teams in both major leagues boosted their batting averages this week while their nearest contenders slipped a bit. The New York Yankees' wrecking crew boosted the team average back to an even .300 in official figures issued Saturday while Pittsburgh gained three percentage points on the slipping Reds.

Traynor seems to be responsible for most of the Pittsburgh Pirates' gain in batting, as he got 13 hits in the last seven games, and moved from seventh to fifth place in the leading ten hitters of the National League. Lester Bell of St. Louis kept a step ahead of him, with 14 hits in seven games, to win fourth place. Seven of Bell's hits were for extra bases, two being home runs. Hargrave, Cincinnati catcher, easily held his leadership of the league in batting, gaining four points to reach .382. Stephenson, the new Chicago Cubs outfielder, hopped in between Hargrave and his Red teammate, Bressler, to take second place, as Bressler had an off week.

Kiki Cuyler of Pittsburgh dropped out of the first ten hitters but stole three bases this week leaving his rivals well behind with a total of 22. Bottomley of St. Louis failed to get the ball over the fence this week, but his total of 11 home runs still leads the National League sluggers. Bell's 545; Brown, Boston, 342; E. Smith, Pittsburgh, 347; Christensen, Cincinnati, 335.

The leading fence busters of the American League fattened their averages this week in double figure scores, except Fothergill, of Detroit, whose mark of well over 400 is slowly crumbling. Bib Falk of the Chicago White Sox, who made such a splash two weeks ago to pass Babe Ruth, was the only one of the leading ten hitters to slump this week. The remedy this week, Manager Eddie Collins of the Sox edged into the first ten.

Ruth got two more home runs, a triple and a double this week besides numerous singles, his home run total, including Wednesday being 31. Simmons of Philadelphia and Tony Lazzari of New York have 12 home runs apiece, and Ken Williams of St. Louis, once Ruth's rival, has broken double figures in circuit smashes.

Rice of Washington caught Hunsberger, the speedy Chicago outfielder, in the stolen base competition, each now having 16, with Mostil, also of the White Sox, just one behind. Rice and Mostil got two apiece this week.

Another successful week like the past one and Ruth will cross the century mark in tallies. He made eight this week, to reach 99, going into a tie with Gehrig of New York who has been leading the Babe all season.

George Ulloa of Cleveland went into a tie with Herb Pennock of New York in victories on the mound, each having sixteen. Pennock is charged with six defeats and Ulloa with eight. Pete Donohue of the Reds is the nearest to this mark in the National League, with 15 victories, to nine defeats. Fate of the athletes remain by far the cleanest, of eight victories, by finishing out one game this week without affecting his record.

Leading American League hitters: Fothergill, Detroit, .403; Ruth, New York, .387; Manush, Detroit, .367; Meusel, New York, .366; Burns, Cleveland, .362; Falk, Chicago, .358; Heilmann, Detroit, .358; Mostil, Chicago, .354; Goslin, Washington, .353; E. Collins, 345.

the circuit is Zinn, Kansas City pitcher, who got two hits in five times up this week, holding firm at .403. One of these hits was a double.

Shulte, who has been sold to St. Louis, suffered the greatest slump of the two leaders, losing 17 points, while Lebourveau dropped 7. Lebourveau picked off two more stolen bases this week, to total 36, and he needed them for Richbourg, of Milwaukee copped five to reach 34, Cullip of St. Paul went wild this week, with four home runs to his credit, in the official figures including Wednesday's games. His team mate Duncan, who leads the league, got one this week to reach 15.

Richbourg also crossed the century mark in runs this week, just a fortnight later than his team mate Shulte. Richbourg now is just on the heels of the ten leading hitters. The system of the Milwaukee rightfielder, seems to be to hit out a triple and then look to his mates to bring him home. Richbourg leads the league in triples with 15.

Charley Robertson sent to Milwaukee in the Shulte trade, raised his score to four victories this week, with no defeats. Hill of Indianapolis won twice this week, now having sixteen victories to two defeats. He is the hardest working pitcher in the Association, leading in innings pitched.

Leading hitters in the Association: Lebourveau, Toledo, .396; Shulte, Milwaukee, .388; Veach, Toledo, .378; Mo Menemy, Milwaukee, .377; Gowdy, Minneapolis, .371; Brief, Milwaukee, .370; Duncan, Minneapolis, .365; Webb, Louisville, .364; DeVormer, Louisville, .359; Brannan, Kansas City, .351.

MANY SHOOTERS IN BAY CONTEST

Appleton Club Sends Delegation to Green Bay for Registered Shoot

Green Bay—Sunday will see the largest number of shooters ever assembled in Green Bay at one time, with the possible exception of the Western Handicap which was held by the Green Bay Game and Gun club in 1914. The local club have entries from organizations in Manistowic and Menominee, Mich., as well as all over Wisconsin.

The traps and equipment are in perfect working order. The first squad will go on the line at 9:30 a.m. promptly, and there will be no rest for the shooters until all regular events are finished. Spectators will be well repaid for their trip to see this trapshooting contest, which is free. The club have provided a kind of refreshments, including a good lunch at noon for those who stay all day.

Green Bay is matched with Manitowic which is the league leader with a perfect record so far. The Manitowic club includes two state champions.

The Green Bay merchants are putting up the money for this shoot, and their co-operation with the local clubs is fast reinstating Green Bay to its old high position as a trapshooting city.

ROGER WETHERED—OBJECT OF CHIP SHOT
The object of the chip is to put the ball dead, or so near the pin that the putt would be held three times out of four. Players will find that there are periods lasting as long as a month or more when they can do no wrong, that the ball sometimes all but lips the hole, and remains so near that it may be knocked in with the back of the putter.

So unlifted in spirit do they become under these happy circumstances that the idea of taking a putter for their long putts appears palpably absurd when a mashie would serve the purpose far more efficiently. It is needless to say that proper self-respect saves them from such an unconventional proceeding.

But the shot can be a fickle one, and there are weeks when the knack is lost and the chip shot may not be played aright. This very short approach is mainly a wrist shot with a mashie. In playing it the body must be held as immovable as a rock.

The arms should barely move in the up swing, and the wrists should be the hinge which allows the club to move backwards, although the hands go forward after the ball is hit.

APPLETON SQUAD 4TH IN BATTING IN VALLEY LOOP

Marks Up .217 to Rank Above Neenah, Bay, Schultz, Baetz Lead Sluggers

With only two regulars, Schultz and Baetz batting in the select .300 circle, Appleton's club of the Fox River Valley league reposes in fourth place in team batting with a mark .217. Oshkosh leads with .275 while Neenah, Bay, and Green Bay are on the bottom with .180 and .153, respectively. These marks are a surprise as far as the Green Sox are concerned and show what fielding and hurling the Bays are getting to hold third place in the loop. Appleton leads the loop in one respect, homers, having five to four for Green Bay and three for Oshkosh. Schultz, Friese and Radtke each have contributed one, with Son Tornow having two.

Schultz leads the Appleton batsmen with a .325 for seventh among loop regulars and Manager Baetz is on his heels in eighth with a .321. Friese, C. Tornow, Ashman and Gosha are batting over .300 in the order named, while two regulars, Radtke and Bent are under that mark. Hackbart of Oshkosh leads the loop with a .407 while the next ten men regulars are Cooke, Kimbrey, L. Faris, Sonn, Senecal and Steen, Fondy; Schultz and Baetz; M. Lamers, Kimberly; Pochojka and Novotny, Oshkosh.

HOPE TO HAVE APPLETON IN AMATEUR GRID LOOP

Hope for a Fox river valley amateur football loop, to include teams from Appleton, Kaukauna, Manitowoc, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Menasha, are rampant in the Fall city, according to newspaper reports from there. Manager Walter Sokol of the Menasha team says he has his men ready and that the Falls will have the best season of recent years on the gridiron next fall. He intends to start practice about Sept. 2 and open the season with a home game the latter part of the month. Plans call for five home games and three away.

Whether the loop will develop is not fully determined yet, though Appleton fans doubt whether a team here would draw because of the college, high school and Packer tilts. The other cities mentioned for loop berths already have strong squads ready to go, especially Kaukauna with its championship Legion crew.

RAIN HALTS BATTLE IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Old Man Pulvius, better known as Jupiter, spoiled another ball game for members of the Twilight loop Friday afternoon when wet grounds prevented the struggle between the Bankers and American Legion, two of the leading crews of the loop. Because of the rain the Legion was forced to remain in a first place tie with the Y. M. C. A., having no chance to take the top rung alone by a win or drop into second under the Triangles by a loss. The Bankers might have strengthened the third place hold by a win and pulled farther away from their second-division foes.

DISPLAY FAVORITE IN CHICAGO DERBY

Chicago—(AP)—Display, Walter J. Salmon's winner of the Preakness, was the favorite in the small field which made the rich revival of the American Derby at Washington Park Saturday one of the most unusual incidents in the history of the turf.

A purpose of $100,000 by far the most handsome in the thoroughbred world, attracted what was rated a mediocre field of eleven entries for the renewal of the classic of 25 years ago.

The mile and a half race was conceded a three-cornered battle involving the Salmon colt and W. R. Role's filly Black Maria, as the east's representation and Boot to Boot. E. R. Bradley's entry and the dependence of the west.

The derby was the sixth of a program of eight races, with post time at 5 o'clock.

RAIN MAY POSTPONE WOMAN'S GOLF FINALS

Milwaukee—(AP)—A drizzling rain which started early Saturday and promised to continue through the morning at least confronted the finalists in the Wisconsin Women's Golf tournament here. Miss Frances Hladfield and Miss Jean Cannon, who won their way into the last round by Friday's contests were ready to start at the appointed hour, but there was a slight delay, which indicated that play might be postponed until later in the day for more favorable weather.

Greenville, Royal Garden Orch. Sun. A real treat for the dandies.

SUMMER BEST TIME TO SEINE FOR SHEEPHEAD

Warden Urges State Appropriation to Take Rough Fish Out of Lake

If Wisconsin would appropriate funds to finance its extensive program of removing rough fish from the major bodies of water and at the same time seine the fish when they move in schools, much greater progress could be made, in the opinion of Isaac Boomer, Oshkosh chief of conservation waters.

Because there is no state fund for the purpose, Mr. Boomer maintains, there is no inducement to private concerns to take up the work of removing sheep head during the summer months, the best time to seine them. Much rough fishing is done in local waters during the cool months of spring and fall by private companies or individuals under state contract and under the supervision of a commission warden. These hauls consist mainly of carp and sheep head. Mr. Boomer points out. The carp is salable in eastern markets, but the sheep head must be disposed of by means of burial at the expense of the seining crew.

Under a common arrangement the state of Wisconsin collects 30 per cent of the sale price of carp, while 70 per cent goes to the fisherman who pays all expenses, including the warden's fee and for the disposal of sheep head.

When warm weather comes, Mr. Boomer declares, the carp spread out over a large area of water thus greatly decreasing the number in each haul. Sheephead on the other hand, might still be caught in large quantities if a financial stipulation would be made by the state.

Rough fish are undesirable because they destroy the breeding grounds of game fish and consume much fish food.

DON'T COUNT GIANTS OUT OF BATTLE YET

Don't count the New York Giants out of the race by any means. McGraw's team is only about five full games behind the leaders and there remain more than two months of play. Moreover, a McGraw club usually fights to the last ditch and must be counted in the chase as long as there's a mathematical chance.

HELEN WILLS MEETS MARY IN NET FINALS

East Hampton, N. Y.—(AP)—Helen Wills, American tennis champion probably will face Mary K. Browne another Californian in the finals of the Maldstone Club invitation tennis tournament here. It will be a severe test. Miss Browne already has qualified for the finals on Sunday. In Friday's play she eliminated the former American champion, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Browne was sensational throughout and appeared far stronger than did Miss Wills in her match with Mrs. Frederick Schmitz of New York which she won 6-2, 6-1.

Duluth—Henry Lenard, Chicago defender Benny Ray, St. Paul (10).

Johnny Weber, Detroit, knocked out Sammy Charwin, New York (3).

Billy Shaw, Detroit, outpointed Jackie Stewart, Indianapolis (8).

DEMOCRATS FEEL THEY HAVE HOPE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Slush Fund Investigation May Cause Political Upheaval in Fall

Philadelphia—A democratic nomination in Pennsylvania ordinarily is worth about as much as a last year's calendar.

But this year seems different, and the rest of the country might keep its eye on the democratic nominee for the United States senate—William B. Wilson, first secretary of labor, former congressman, miner, union organizer, farmer and poet. The steersman of his political ship is a woman, his daughter Agnes. The senate investigating commitee down at Washington raised an awful stir over the Republican primary here! They brought out, as everyone has heard, that campaign expenditures for the nominee, Representative Vane, were around $300,000 for Senator Pepper, around $1,800,000, and for Governor Pinchot, around $188,000. The lowest of these figures has elevated quite a few sensational eyebrows.

Not since the red letter days of 1882 and 1890, when Robert E. Pattison was elected governor, have Democrats felt so good.

"What the Republican candidates said about each other during the primary will furnish all the campaign material the Democrats need," says Wilson.

"There is hope among Democrats this year, which should bring them out to vote on election day. In the present congress we have not a single Democrat from Pennsylvania. We need at least a good fighting minority."

POEM TO DAUGHTER
When Wilson was a boy his father was ambitious that he would be a writer. But the boy left school at 9 to go into the mines and help earn a living for the family. The father might consider his wish granted, however, if he could read the verse which his son occasionally writes.

Wilson wrote a poem, for example, to his daughter Agnes, who managed his campaigns when he was running for congress. She will be the field general in his battle for the senate in November. The verse—

"Whether it wins votes or not—is: 'Such eyes! Their limpid beauty So pleasant and strong and true, Urging me on, when duty Seems more than my strength can do!'

I toil and deem it pleasure, Yet pray that God may devise For me a lifetime of leisure To gaze in her sweet blue eyes."

The candidate was born in Scotland, and is 64 years old. The family came to Arnot, in northern Pennsylvania, when the boy was 8 years old. He got his education principally by reading aloud to his father.

"My father was a typical, argumentative Scotch-Presbyterian," says Wilson. "He liked to worry over straws of discussion with the neighbors, and I read to him serious books on theology and economics to furnish him ammunition for his controversies."

ORGANIZED UNION

When the young miner was 20 he was forced out of work by the coal operators because he had organized a union. They regarded him as a menace. His union had grown out of a debating society he had started in the back room of a cobbler's shop. Apparently the father's taste for argument was passed along to the son. That union battle was the beginning of many labor fights. Wilson naturally has a great deal of the mine vote in the state. This and the republican tangle and his party's optimism make him that rare exhibit, a Pennsylvania Democrat who has a chance.
